RULE STOCK DIVIDENDS EXEMPT

Supreme Court Decision in Income Tax Cases Causes Flurry on Market

The United States Supreme Court in Washington today ruled that stock dividends are not taxable under the 1916 income tax law.

When this decision was handed down financial circles received an utterly opposite report, with the result that the market went to smash for a few minutes. When the true decision became known, prices began to climb back and the market steadied itself again.

The dissemination of the false report will probably be investigated by the principal stock exchanges.

A test case was brought by Mrs. Myrtle P. Macomber in the New York Federal courts to recover taxes paid on 1,100 shares of stock of Standard Oil of California given as a stock dividend. The lower courts decided in her favor and the government, through Mark Eisner, collector of internal revenue of New York, appealed the case to the Supreme Court. The decision of the lower court was sustained by the Supreme Court.

The decision upholding that of

Free Boy, in Love, Who Attempted Suicide

James Aldrich, the Chauncey Hall School boy, who threatened his own life with a revolver in a Back Bay motion pictures house when he saw the girl of his choice sitting with another youth, was released today by Judge Dowd and placed in the custody of his father, a wealthy Detroit business man.

The girl in the case is Margaret Williams of Evans road, Brookline, and the other youth, Marshall H. Bailey, Jr. Bailey is her cousin, according to testimony.

LIFE IN PRISON FOR SAMMARCO

Clancey's Slayer Sentenced; Sweetheart Breaks Down in Courtroom

Joseph Sammarco, convicted slayer of Patrolman William G. Clancy, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge John F. Brown in Superior Court today.

Sammarco displayed no emotion, and when asked if he had anything to say to the jury, replied that he had not.

Rose Ivalidino, sweetheart of the convicted man, who had promised to "wait for him," broke down when sentence was pronounced.

Sammarco was convicted of second degree murder, after a short trial last week. The patrolman was shot to death in Roughan's Hall in Charlestown the night of January 22, during an altercation with several young men in the hall.

FRADKIN TELLS MEN TO RETURN

Players Take Places at Rehearsal; Will Keep Up Fight With Trustees

The strike of the thirty or more musicians in the Boston Symphony Orchestra ended today, when the men resumed their places at the rehearsal.

It was stated by some of those who went into the hall that Concertmaster Frederick Fradkin, whose dismissal caused the strike, was responsible for their return to the hall.

They said Fradkin appealed to them to forget him as an issue and to continue their work for art and music.

It is understood that the union leaders plan to make their fight for recognition and for Fradkin from within rather than by direct action. They have been advised that the ends may be better attained by working continuously that by precipitating a crisis.

LOOKED FOR TROUBLE.

Many followers of music were assembled at Symphony Hall at rehearsal time today. It had been stated that striking members of the orchestra would do picket duty in an effort to bring out more members of the great band.

As the hour for rehearsal approached these people, together with newspaper men assembled, were more or less surprised at seeing a great

Allies Prepare for War on Turkey

By International News Service.

London, March 8.—An allied army of 60,000 men is being concentrated at Constantinople and in adjacent Turkish territory, it was learned this afternoon.

These troops are being massed at strategic points as a result of unanimous agreement reached among the allies.

British troops in Egypt and Palestine are reported to have been ordered to Constantinople. Detachments of allied troops that were being held in the near east are being moved closer to the Turkish capital as a result of the critical situation that has developed. Home drafts in England are being held in readiness for service.

The Turkish situation has brought the menace of a new war closer to the allies than at any other time since the armistice was signed. The Turkish government at Constantinople blames the Turkish nationalists for the military activities in the old Ottoman empire, but there is strong evidence that the nationalists have carried on their war propaganda with the consent, if not the connivance, of the Porte.

The nationalists under Kemal Pasha have been mobilizing and arming, meanwhile carrying on outrages against the Christians and guerilla warfare against the British, French and Greek forces of occupation.

If hostilities should break out upon a big scale in Turkey they would be confined to the interior on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus and Dardanelles. On account of the wild character of the country the allies probably would have to send an army of nearly 250,000 men to restore order and crush the Turkish army.

NEW MENACE IN SPRING THAW

Short of Food and Milk, Snowbound New England Faces Fresh Peril

Already demoralized by the havoc that followed in the storm's wake, New England today faced the new menace of a Spring thaw of dangerous proportions.

Railroads, street railways and municipal street departments were frantically strengthening bridges and otherwise preparing for the threatened floods.

Weather Forecaster Smith predicted a rise to 35 or 40 degrees, the thaw to continue throughout tomorrow.

The evil results of Saturday's blizzard were far from repaired today. Sea tragedies were reported all along the North Atlantic coast. Food shortages of alarming proportions developed in northern New England, and rail traffic was in a bad state.

Possibility of a milk shortage in Boston was seen by some, unless New England dug itself quickly out of its snow blanket. The Boston & Maine Railroad was particularly hard hit, and this road carries nearly all the milk that is consumed in Greater Boston.

Features of the storm's aftermath were:

Two steamships abandoned in the heavy seas off this coast; others in distress and being towed in.

SENATE INQUIRY INTO ABILITY OF COLBY

Washington, March 8.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee again failed today to take any action on the nomination of Bainbridge Colby for Secretary of State. It was agreed that no recommendation as to Colby's confirmation should be made to the Senate until his qualifications for the office had been carefully gone into. Members of the committee stated it would probably be some time before the committee finally acted, although it was said he would probably be confirmed eventually.

35,000 TONS OF COAL REACH CITY BY WATER

Seven steamships arrived in Boston today from coal ports with approximately 21,000 tons of bituminous coal. They were the Malden, Brandon and North Wind from Norfolk, the Lakelinnis and Wenukes from Newport News, and the Lake River from Philadelphia. With the arrivals yesterday the total receipts by water of bituminous coal for the first two days of the week total nearly 35,000 tons.

BUILDINGS SAVED BY STUDENTS

Mount Holyoke Girls Form Bucket Brigade and Keep Loss Down to $75,000

South Hadley, March 8.—Eleven hundred students of Mount Holyoke College formed bucket brigades and for more than an hour they fought a fire which practically destroyed Stafford Hall, one of the principal dormitories on the campus, and which for a time threatened the whole college.

Miss Margaret Logan Clark, who discovered the blaze in the trunk room in the basement, was badly burned about the face and hands and a property damage was done estimated at $75,000.

Miss Clark and six students, who were studying, were the only persons in the building when the fire started.

GRAIN BIN ON FIRE.

Miss Clark ran into the basement and, opening the door leading into the trunk room, was met by a wall of flame. Before she could escape flames attacked her clothing and burned her hands, her face and her hair. She was treated for her injuries by Dr. Elizabeth Underhill, the college physician.

Miss Clark shouted to the students, who ran onto the campus and gave the alarm. The fire apparatus from South Hadley was unable to make headway through the deep snow, and before it arrived the interior of the building was burned out.

The college fire bells summoned girls from the dormitories who, under fire captains, formed themselves into bucket lines and rescue lines.

Two lines of girls extended from the fire to a lake, 400 yards away, from which water was passed.

GIRLS SAVE PROPERTY.

Other girls passed furniture from the rooms along lines extending from the windows to other dormitories. They rescued much property this way until the blaze forced them to retire.

The dormitory was used by seventy-five girls, who lost most of their personal effects. Only a few of the trunks could be rescued from the burning building. The damage to the building is estimated at $35,000, while the loss to the students in personal effects may bring the damage to double that figure.

NAVY WANTS A SECOND YARD FOR PACIFIC FLEET

Washington, March 8.—Establishment of another navy yard in San Francisco Bay was advocated today before the House Naval Affairs Committee by Secretary Daniels. A program of extension of naval facilities on the Pacific Coast was outlined to care for the Pacific fleet.

PRESIDENT TAKES ANOTHER MOTOR RIDE

Washington, March 8.—President Wilson for the second time within a week today took a short motor trip.

The weather was a bit cold, although the sun was shining brightly, and the President asked Dr. Grayson to arrange for an early motor trip through the suburbs of Washington.

150 CHELSEA SHOE WORKERS GO ON STRIKE

A strike of 150 workers at the shoe factory of Millar & Wolfer, Webster avenue, Chelsea, has practically tied up that plant today. The strikers are picketing the plant.

Offers City 100 Who Want to Dig Snow

One hundred men who are anxious to get work as street cleaners were offered to the city today by Representative Thomas A. Niland of East Boston. In a letter to Mayor Peters, the representative urged that these men be used in East Boston. The letter follows:

"Dear Sir—Our main thoroughfares are heaped with snow banks. Our regular street cleaning force was depleted to remove the snow from other sections of this city.

"I am urged by the citizens of this district to request you to order a large force sent into East Boston to clear our streets as soon as possible.

"I can procure for you, for this emergency work, one hundred men who sadly need employment."

SERVES NOTICE ON ELEVATED

Must Clear Tracks or City Will, Declares Acting Mayor

Acting Mayor James T. Moriarty today served summary notice on the Boston Elevated railway that he will have city employes clear the snow and ice from Hampden street and other Roxbury highways and will send the bills to the Elevated "unless you begin at once to clear these long-neglected thoroughfares."

The announcement that the acting mayor had held the "big stick" over the Elevated's head was made by Representative Daniel J. Gillen after conferences with both Moriarty and General Manager Dana.

"The 140,000 fire at the Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, which endangered the City Hospital, got its headway because Hampden street was impassable to the fire apparatus," said Representative Gillen.

"The Elevated is violating its franchise, which requires it to run a car through Dorset street at least once every twenty-four hours."

HEARSE BURNS AFTER BODY IS REMOVED

A motor hearse, from which a coffin had just been removed, was destroyed by flames today. It was ignited by a back fire of the motor when the driver attempted to release the machine from a snow drift in front of the Holy Cross cemetery at Malden. When it was seen that the hearse could not be released with ease the coffin was hauled from the vehicle, but stuck in the heavy snow. Firemen ran to the cemetery with hand extinguishers. The car was destroyed.

CONVICTION OF PIERCE AS SPY IS UPHELD

Washington, March 8.—The Supreme Court today affirmed the decision of the District Court of Northern New York in which conviction was had of Clinton Pierce and others of conspiring to obstruct the United States in conduct of the war through publications disseminated in Albany, N. Y., and of violations of the espionage act.

ST. PAUL LANDS CREW OF STEAMSHIP BRATO

Queenstown, Ire., March 8.—The American steamship St. Paul arrived today with the crew of the steamship Brato, who were rescued at sea after the Brato had started to sink.

COLLISION CAUSED BY DARK CAR

Many Are Hurt When City Point Trolley Is Damaged at Boylston Station

A north-bound City Point-Subway car crashed into a car that had gone dead on the tracks ahead of it just below the Boylston street subway station today.

Several persons, including the motorman of the City Point car, were injured when the forward windows of the car were smashed and splintered back through the vehicle.

The City Point car was proceeding along at a fair rate of speed when suddenly it crashed into the other car.

The car ahead was without lights and it could not be seen by the City Point motorman in time to prevent the collision. The South Boston motorman's number was 1492 and the conductor No. 1335. There were twenty-three passengers on that car. One woman sustained cuts to her head and face. Considerable excitement prevailed.

FAIL TO AGREE ON BILL TO PERMIT BOXING

J. Frank Chase of the Watch and Ward Society and Medley T. Holdsworth, one of the chief opponents of the several boxing bills before the Legislature, appeared before the Committee on Legal Affairs today and reported they were unable to come to a satisfactory agreement on the matter of legalizing the holding of boxing matches. The disagreement is over the question of the commercial features of bouts. The boxing bills had been given hearings and the two sides held conferences with a view to getting together on some sort of a bill.

ASKED TO LOCATE EAST BOSTON MAN

The police have been asked to locate Frank L. Delaney, twenty-two, married, of No. 334 Meridian street, East Boston, missing since 1:30 o'clock Monday. When Delaney left his home to go to the drug store at Essex and Washington streets, he wore a black suit, green overcoat, soft green hat, white shirt with blue stripes, green tie, brown shoes and white socks. He is five feet eight inches in height, with black hair and weighs 145 pounds.

GETS $5100 FROM GIRL CASHIER AND FLEES

Detroit, March 8.—Mrs. Marie Ryan, cashier of the Miles Theatre, in the business section, was struck down by two bandits in the office of the theatre and robbed of $5,100 in cash. The two men who committed the robbery entered a motor truck driven by a third member of their band and made their escape.

EXECUTE MEXICAN BANDIT BEFORE FAMILY

Agua Prieta, Mex., March 8.—The notorious rebel chief and bandit, Mateo Flores, who for the past five years has terrorized the State of Tamaulipas and committed more than 200 murders, has been executed in the presence of his wife and their daughters, it was stated today in dispatches. His execution followed a court-martial Sunday.

INTEREST

was invented by no novice. Whether the inventor intended interest for the bankers only, and not for savings depositors, we do not know. But whatever his intentions, our belief is that savings depositors are entitled to every possible cent the earned and collected income of a bank will pay.

Carrying out our belief in this principle, we favor the bill which would remove the limit on the amount of interest a savings bank can pay.

The law limits the savings banks to certain conservative investments and loans. That is right and proper. But if these conservative investments and loans can pay more than five per cent. to depositors, why prohibit them from receiving more?

The banks are receiving high rates of interest these days. Money, like every other commodity, is high. Everybody but a savings depositor can share in the prosperity.

When money becomes cheap the savings depositor is the first to feel it. His rate of interest is at once cut down. But when money is dear, he is not allowed to get, by law, more for his savings.

Our attorney, in making a study of the law, has advised us that while savings banks cannot pay more than five per cent., trust companies may.

We are glad to know this. We have the desire to pay our savings depositors more than five per cent., and as soon as our earned and collected income will regularly warrant the payment of more than five per cent. we will pay it.

This, of course, will depend on the people. The larger our deposits grow, the greater our income will be, with practically no increase in our over-head expense, and thus we will be able to increase our rate of interest.

A banker, the other day, told the Legislative Committee on Banks and Banking that he was paying his savings depositors four and one-half per cent. and his stockholders ten per cent.

That is not our style. A savings depositor's dollar, to our mind, is worth as much to the depositor as the stockholder's dollar is to the stockholder. Both dollars earn money for the bank. The stockholders should not cut melons at the expense of the savings depositors.

This is our banking creed. And we practice it.

SOCIETY DIGS AT PITTSFIELD

Women Social Leaders Join Writers and Ministers as Snow Shovelers

Pittsfield, March 8.—Society women, writers, ministers, professional men and workers turned out today in the greatest snow-shoveling bee ever held in Berkshire County in an effort to liberate the tracks of the Berkshire Street Railroad here from the snow and ice which has closed traffic.

An army of 1,200 men responded to the call of Mayor Louis A. Merchant and already six lines have been cleared and cars are operating on two of them.

Mrs. Grace Campbell Van Norden, well known socially in New York, was among the shovelers. J. Allen Dunn, who writes short stories, and Edward Bok, also well known in literary circles, wielded picks. Rev. Franklin J. Kennedy of the First Methodist Church and Rev. Harry Daniels and C. R. Joy also dug.

Two hundred high school boys were at work.

COLLISION DAMAGES BIG SHIP COURAGEOUS

A collision between the big Shipping Board steamship Courageous and the barge Wilmington in Boston harbor, not previously reported, became known today. The collision occurred Sunday while the steamship was steaming into port from Norfolk and the Resolute was towing a string of light barges outward. The Courageous was considerably damaged above the waterline and repairs will be effected here. She brought 10,000 tons of emergency coal. She has been chartered by the Red Star line for its Boston-Antwerp service and will load here as soon as she can be repaired.

FORMER SLAVE GETS 6 MONTHS' SENTENCE

John McGee, colored, charged in municipal court today with theft of wearing apparel from clothesliines in the West End, told the court that he had "found" all the articles in question on Boston Common. He was sentenced to six months and appealed. McGee testified that he had been born a slave in Tennessee.

MINISTER ASKS FOR WORK DAY OF 6 HOURS

The six-hour day for all workers was advocated today before the Baptist ministers in Kingsley Hall by the Rev. Dr. W. McG. Rosselle, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Malden. "This six-hour day will give every one time and thought to follow their avocations," he said. "Men will work better."

SNOW-BOUND, NEW ENGLAND FACES NEW PERIL IN BIG THAW

RAPID RISE IN TEMPERATURE PRESENTS REAL MENACE

Maine and New Hampshire report acute food shortage in small communities, due to complete breakdown of railway service.

Demoralized Vermont railways slowly resume operation, and release dozens of trains stalled in the hill towns.

Two fatalities added to the storm's casualty list, one a man found dead at Swampscott, the other dead from over exertion in fighting through snow-clogged streets at Newburyport.

Concord, N. H., has a unique "holiday" in which 2,000 volunteers help to dig the city out of the drifts.

Thousands of volunteers engaged in similar work all over New England, in response of to the appeal of the Associated Industries and the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

PORTLAND, ME., ISOLATED.

Portland, Me., is practically isolated, for the first time in recent history.

Through train service into Boston was in a chaotic condition today, particularly on the Boston & Maine. There were many cancellations of trains out of the city. The paper train leaving at 1 o'clock today stalled at Old Orchard, Me., and dozens of other trains were sunk in snow banks in the North. It is not expected that the Maine tracks will be cleared before late tomorrow.

In response to the appeal of the Chamber of Commerce 2,500 volunteer snow shovelers were at work on the Boston & Maine today. The number included high school boys from Lawrence, who were assigned to Exeter, N. H. Lawrence was particularly hard hit by the milk shortage, resulting from cancelling trains.

B. & A. NEAR NORMAL.

The New Haven road suffered severely, but not to the degree that the usually fortunate B. & M. did. The Boston & Albany weathered the storm well, and today reported traffic nearly normal.

Northern New England today reported the chaos beyond any following in the trail of a snowstorm in many years. Many small towns are so completely cut off that the outside world is not even informed as to the seriousness of their plight. Other small towns have been congested by the influx of snowbound railway passengers seeking food and shelter. Conditions in Cape Cod today were reported bad, but not as serious as after the last big storm.

Results of the storm at sea have been even worse, according to seamen reaching Boston. The steamships Eva B. Douglass and Lejok have been abandoned off the Atlantic coast after the rescue of their crews. The steamship Guilford, carrying fuel for Boston, is being towed to this port by the revenue cutter Acushnet, after getting into trouble off Nantucket Shoals.

Captain John B. Morris and crew of thirty-three were rescued by the transport Pocahontas, leaded for Antwerp, Belgium. They were landed at Newport today.

OTHER SEA DISASTERS.

The Merchants & Miners' liner Nantucket, overdue in Boston, is en route to this city with the rescued crew of an abandoned barge, it was learned by wireless today.

Other sea disasters past or impending, were reported. The Shipping Board steamship Lake Ellithorpe was being swept by heavy seas toward the breakers at Sable Island. Another steamship, believed to be the collier Cape Breton, is aground on a small island off Nova Scotia. The steamship Hundred is reported by wireless to be afire in the bunkers, 900 miles at sea.

Tug and Its Tow Weather Blizzard

Buzzards Bay, March 8.—A thrilling story of battle for life in raging seas was brought here today by Captain A. Clark of the tug F. Q. Brown, bound from New York to Plymouth with the oil barge Tidal in tow.

The tug, with the barges in tow, was trapped by the blizzard half way between Sandwich, the cape end of Cape Cod canal, which point it had left early in the morning, and Plymouth.

Giant seas boarded the little craft, careened her from stem to stern. The firemen was flooded and ice gathered on the bow, dragging the head of the tug down. During the few minutes after the craft struck the blizzard all hands believed she must go down.

Officers and crew donned life preservers.

The tug was slowly turned around and the return race to port began. For nearly five hours the tug battled with the blizzard and only succeeded in reaching the entrance of the canal by the use of the sounding lead along the storm-swept coast. Even then, the crew would have been lost had not an incoming tide borne the craft into the sheltering waters of the canal.

Captain Clark and members of the crew declare the experience the most thrilling they have ever known. It is estimated that at the height of the storm the wind reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

Mayor Snowbound at Woodstock, Vt.

Mayor Peters is snowbound in Woodstock, Vt., and can't get back to Boston, he telephoned today to his secretary, E. V. B. Parke. Forty-foot snowdrifts block the way of the Quechee Valley Railroad which runs through the foothills of the Green Mountains between Woodstock and White River Junction.

A malicious fate seems to pursue the Mayor when on vacation. Last Summer he was foghound for a week at North Haven, Me., during the crisis in the Boston Elevated carmen's strike. His sojourn at Woodstock may be equally as long, he said today, unless he can negotiate the fifteen miles to White River Junction on snowshoes. At the junction he can get a train home, unless, as reported, the Boston & Maine has failed to penetrate farther north than Concord, N. H.

SOVIET ARMIES LOSE IN TWO GREAT BATTLES

London, March 8.—According to Central News dispatches received from Copenhagen and Berlin today, Russian Soviet armies have opened offensives against both Rumania and Poland.

The Central News correspondent at Copenhagen reported that 150,000 Russians had crossed the Dneister River but were defeated by the Rumanians.

Another Central News dispatch from Berlin said that the Russians attacked the Poles north and south of the Pripet marshes, but were repulsed with heavy loss.

WILSON'S ADRIATIC NOTE ACCEPTABLE

London, March 8.—The main conditions of President Wilson's latest note in the Adriatic controversy are acceptable to Premier Lloyd George, it was declared from an authoritative source today.

LUFKIN SCORES MOVE BY HALL

Censures G. O. P. State Committeemen Who Enter Race for Delegates

Chairman Frank B. Hall and other members of the Republican State Committee who have entered the race for delegates to the Republican National Convention today were publicly censured and called upon to withdraw by Congressman W. W. Lufkin, chairman of the Wood campaign in Massachusetts.

Congressman Lufkin's attack threatens to widen the breach between the Wood and the Coolidge unpledged forces in the Republican party.

The business of Chairman Hall and the other State committeemen to to elect the regularly-nominated candidates and not to be mixed up in party fights, was the substance of Congressman Lufkin's attack.

"I have no particular interest in Mr. Hall's candidacy," said Mr. Lufkin, "but I do believe, however, that the chairman of the Republican State Committee, the officer whose duty it will be to direct the national campaign next Autumn, should not be picked up in party fights with his fellow Republicans. This applies equally to other officers of that committee. The function of the Republican State Committee is to elect candidates, not to nominate them. For these reasons I am hopeful that Chairman Hall and Secretary Louis Pfeiffer may decide to keep out of the inter-party fights now going on in their respective districts."

In addition to Hall and Pfeiffer, State Committeeman William S. Felton is another of the known candidates in their districts. All want to go unpledged, but with Governor Coolidge as their "first choice." Prominent Wood candidates are opposed to all three in the districts.

BRITAIN ORDERS IRISH BANKS TO OPEN BOOKS

Dublin, March 8.—The British government, it is learned, intends to compel Irish banks to disclose the character and condition of the accounts of all clients. Hitherto the right of depositors to absolute secrecy on the part of the banks has been regarded as inviolate.

The belief prevails here that Dublin Castle, by this measure, seeks to trace the connections of the Irish Republic loan with the view to confiscating them.

Sausage Dealer Fined

Frederick W. Baldau, fined $25 today in Municipal Court, was charged with selling adulterated sausages to Officer James V. Murphy of the Board of Health. Another count in the same charge was filed.

PLAYERS RETURN TO SYMPHONY

Urged to Go Back by Fradkin; Will Continue Fight for Higher Wages

many of the players who struck Saturday night entering the hall.

When one of them was pressed for an explanation he stated that the men still belonged to the union and were still loyal to Fradkin. They had, however, decided to return to their duties pending an adjustment of the difficulties.

LETTER FROM FRADKIN.

Concertmaster Fradkin, in a letter to the members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Members' Association, through their president, Rudolph Ringwall, made the plea that the men remain at their duties. Fradkin made clear his reasons for joining the union and also his reasons for asking the men to remain on duty. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Ringwall:

"The association, now numbering seventy-five, joined the American Federation of Musicians because of the mixed-up condition existing among a large number of the members of our orchestra. You will recall that I had nothing to do with the movement at its inception; that I was urged not to join; that I stated to the small salaries they were receiving; that the salaries paid in Symphony Orchestras were largely in excess of those which were being paid in the Boston Symphony, and that in order to give strength to the movement which you had inaugurated that it would be better to join with you.

"You will recall that I told you and the other members who called on me that I had no selfish interest in view; that I was not seeking and would not accept an increase as the result of my joining your organization; that if the members felt that my joining with them would be helpful, that I would gladly do so and aid them with all my might and main.

"SUPERSENSITIVE."

"I can hardly repeat what I have heretofore stated, that it seemed to me that the audience that gave the Symphony Orchestra showed their disapproval of your action for having joined the union, and as it seemed to me their ingratitude for the sacrifices the members of the orchestra were making and their disapproval of the Monteux conduct for having ordered me from the management's room in Symphony Hall, whereas I had been accustomed to dress before the concert. I may have mistaken the meaning of the audience on account of my supersensitive condition, but I repeat that I intended no offense to anyone and I have already made as you know, full apology through the press.

"I should be ungrateful, indeed, if I were not sensible of the splendid loyalty shown me by my associates in the orchestra. I appreciate more than I can tell you the sacrifice the men were willing to make in my behalf. To the members who stayed away from the concert on Saturday, and to those who, disapproving the action of the trustees, felt that they did not wish to disappoint the audience are also out of regard for them played at the concert, I am deeply grateful.

"A resolution was passed by the association condemning the action of the trustees for my dismissal and notifying them that until I was restored to my position that they would decline to perform in the orchestra. This is further testimony of your splendid loyalty, and I appreciate it more than I can tell you.

APPEALS TO HIS FRIENDS.

"I understand that Mr. Cabot stated to you that my dismissal had nothing to do with your movements to organize, to join the Federation of Musicians and to better your conditions. His sincerity can only be tested by his at once agreeing to the proposal you made to him in the communication of February 27, 1920.

"If you will do so I shall feel that what little I have done for you has not been in vain and that my dismissal, however unjust I feel it was, has accomplished what I so earnestly desire.

"It was a great honor to have been the concertmaster of so noble a band of musicians. I deeply regret that I cannot be with you longer. God bless, you, every one of you. If I can be of service to you individually or collectively any time, any where, do not hesitate to come to me—I hope you will not find me wanting."

Judge Cabot sent the following letter to those men who did not go on the stage for the concert Saturday evening:

"According to report, you are one of those who refused to play at the Boston Symphony Orchestra concert last Saturday. Such refusal clearly constituted a breach of contract. There was a good deal of excitement at the time and doubtless some men were influenced by views or feelings which others did not have.

"I shall be at Symphony Hall between two and five p. m. Monday, March 8, and request you to see me there at that time if there is anything you wish to say prior to action by the trustees. Meanwhile, if the report is correct as to you, you are excused from attendance at rehearsal Monday, March 8."

Reveal Details of Secret Ship Pact

Washington, March 8.—Allocation of the steamship Leviathan, the largest vessel afloat, to the International Mercantile Marine, by reason of a five years' contract entered into secretly by the chairman of the Shipping Board and the steamship company, was unknown to Raymond B. Stevens, one of the five commissioners of the Shipping Board, until it was brought to his attention by a representative of the Boston American.

Stevens was completely astounded by the news and declared that he would seek an explanation today from Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the board. He said:

"It is singular that no mention of a contract has ever been made to me."

HEARST FORCED ADMISSION.

The fact that a contract existed, however, was first revealed by the Boston American on February 21, the day after the injunction of the District Supreme Court against the proposed sale of the Leviathan and her twenty-mind sister ships was secured by William Randolph Hearst.

Then that date Judge Payne, frustrated from selling the ships outright at any price, announced that the Leviathan and certain other vessels of the former German fleet," would be leased for five years to International Mercantile Marine and would be operated by that company.

Judge Payne then said:

"We will go through with our contract and permit the International Mercantile Marine to operate the ships."

This statement of two weeks ago was the first direct admission on the part of Judge Payne that a previous agreement was entered into between the Shipping Board and the International Mercantile Marine for the operation of the ships.

PAYNE GETS FULL BLAME.

Judge Payne yesterday refused to make any statement regarding the secret deal with the British controlled company.

It became known, however, that the entire responsibility for making this contract rests directly with Chairman Payne, who took office last August after the resignation of Edward N. Hurley.

It was also learned that Bainbridge Colby, who was reported to have approved the contract made in December, was not at the time a member of the board, having resigned early in 1919, and never at any time was chairman of the Shipping Board.

The fact that this contract was in existence in December shows conclusively that the proposed "auction" of the Leviathan and twenty-nine other German ships was in the nature of a sham, as it is held no steamship concern could have bought ships which had already been allocated to the International Mercantile Marine for a period of five years.

EXPLAINS LACK OF BIDS.

It has been frequently charged in shipping circles that the whole procedure leading up to Judge Payne's "auction" was simply camouflage, in order that the whole fleet might be turned over the operation of the I. M. M.

This undoubtedly explains the fact that no bids other than those of the International Mercantile Marine were ever received for the Leviathan, and that this was the only company to make a bid for all of the former German ships of the fleet. This bid was for only $23,000,000, described by shipping experts in testimony before congressional committees as "ridiculous."

The most astonishing feature of the whole secret pact between Judge Payne and the International Mercantile Marine, however, is the clause in the contract which says that when the sealed bids on the Leviathan were opened, and it should be found that the I. M. M. was outbid, this company would have the right to meet the offer of the highest bidder. This means that no other company could ever have acquired the Leviathan, as they could not hope to outbid the International Mercantile Marine.

LOOK FOR SENSATIONS.

Sensational disclosures are expected to follow in Congress as a result of this agreement with the International Mercantile Marine, a British-controlled company. Judge Payne has reluctantly admitted the existence of such a contract before the farcical auction of the vessels was stopped suddenly by Hearst's injunction. But Judge Payne has never at any time disclosed the nature of the contract, and this despite pointed inquiries from many sources.

The existence of a contract allocating the Leviathan and other ships to a foreign-controlled company, in deliberate antagonism to the Senate's wishes, is expected to cause a really serious rift in the party. It is obvious that Judge Payne will have to go into the minutest details of his prearranged allocation of the ships of the International Mercantile Marine when he comes before the Commerce Committee.

READY TO TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Germans of All Classes Drop Their Propaganda Against Bolshevism

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.

Berlin, March 8.—Anti-Bolshevist propaganda here has all but ceased. Hope that England and France might ask Germany to supply an army to operate either separately or jointly with them in a military attempt on a large scale to put down Bolshevism in Russia by force has died out, even in ultra-reactionary quarters.

There is a feeling in those quarters that they were fooled when they thought that England contemplated such a move, which would have been to her disadvantage. There is a strong shift of sentiment in favor of establishing trade with Russia.

The German government is still adhering to the position officially that it can do little or nothing; that the German foreign policy is no longer decided in Wilhelmstrasse, but in London, Paris and Washington. But it has informed German financial and industrial interests that they are free to do whatever they can toward re-establishing trade with Russia.

Reactionary circles are taking the attitude that if the Soviet Russian government will forswear propaganda and all meddling in the internal affairs of Germany, a basis can be found for a political and commercial entente between the two countries.

Even Ludendorff, who only two weeks ago appealed to the non-Bolshevist nations to get together and put down the present regime in Russia, is said to have come to the realization that this can no longer be done and has been all but won over to a policy of conciliation with Bolshevist Russia.

There is much speculation here regarding coming developments in Poland. That country is maintaining an army of almost three-quarters of a million men for the sole purpose of keeping Bolshevism out, but this is considered as great a menace from within.

There is a conviction here that Poland cannot much longer support so vast an army, that the new nation is practically bankrupt.

STOCK DIVIDENDS NOT TAXABLE, COURT RULES

Prices Soar in New York as Result of Decision

By International News Service.

New York, March 8.—Prices went skyrocketing on the stock exchange here today on the Supreme Court announcement that stock dividends were not taxable.

The market was deluged with buying orders, with brokers frantically trying to make executions at prices from three to over thirty points above Saturday's closing.

An erroneous report circulated earlier in the trading that the Supreme Court had ruled that stock dividends were taxable caused a falling off in some issues, but prices quickly rebounded.

General Motors as most active, advancing 31¾ points to 280. Crucible, after selling off to 121, had a sudden jump to 135. Steel common yielded to 95¾, but quickly rose to above 99. American Woolen fell to 112½ and then made a sharp rally to 125. Baldwin, after yielding to 108¼, rose 8 points, and U. S. Rubber rose over 8 points to 166.

Judge Calls Soldier's Acts Disgraceful

"It is about time a stop was put to soldiers disgracing the uniform," said Judge Dowd today in sentencing Hyman R. McRay, a soldier from Fort Warren, to two months for assault and battery. He appealed.

McRay was charged with striking Max Smith, ticket seller at a Hanover street theatre. Mrs. Smith testified that McRay, with three companions, accused her of "short-changing" him.

"I had a son in France," she told the court, "but if he was like this one I'd take the uniform off him and put it on a real man."

VILLA RENEWS WAR ON BORDER

Burns Train, Kills Passengers, Kidnaps Americans and Make Threats

Washington, March 8.—Attacking a passenger train near Chihuahua on March 4 and burning it after killing several of the passengers, Francisco Villa has proclaimed a new reign of terror along the Mexican border, according to advices reaching the State Department today.

The attack on the train, which was conducted by Villa and a band of 150 men, was followed by the capture of Joseph Williams, an American engineer of the American Smelting and Refining Company in Mexico, who was carried away as a prisoner for ransom.

All of the passengers on the train were either killed or robbed before it was set on fire.

As the train was being looted and burned Villa made a speech, in which he threatened to attack other trains and even towns at will.

R. W. Black, an American salesman, who was on the train at the time and witnessed the capture of Williams by Villa personally, gave an account of the attack to James B. Stewart, the American consul at Chihuahua. This account, which was sent to the State Department today, says:

"Two explosions derailed the engine on March 6 at 11 a. m. About one-half of the guard of fifty were killed in the fighting. Two train conductors were executed.

"A Syrian was hanged and about five Mexican passengers who attempted to escape were shot.

"The entire train was looted and then burned."

A third American, Robert J. Peltier, was on the train with Black and Williams. Peltier and Black were robbed with other passengers. Nothing of Williams' fate is contained in the message from Consul Stewart today.

ARRAIGN WARREN ON MARCH 17

Accused Attorney Will Be Released From the Psychopathic Hospital

Attorney Joseph Franklin Warren, charged with several larcenies, will be discharged from the Psychopathic Hospital not later than tomorrow. He has been at the institution for more than a week.

While nothing official has as yet been given out regarding Warren's mental condition, it is further pointed out that it was found to be satisfactory.

Warren will be arraigned in municipal court March 17 to answer to charges of larceny from Jude Joseph R. Churchill and Captain James E. Gerrish.

These alleged larcenies aggregate approximately $7,000. Investigators intimate that Warren has liabilities of approximately $200,000.

WIFE TRIED TO KEEP NELSON OUT OF OVERSEAS NAVY SERVICE

TELLS OF 3 TRIPS TO CAPITAL

Lieut. Hahn One of Friends She Appealed to; Daughter's Testimony Private

Mrs. Eva G. Nelson, testifying in her own behalf in the East Cambridge divorce Court today, said that she made three trips to Washington during the war in an attempt to keep her husband, Ernest E. Nelson, out of active naval service overseas.

On these trips, which she intimated were made with his knowledge, the woman said she visited a number of heads of departments and once interviewed Lieutenant Hann in New York.

Following this testimony, five-and-a-half-year-old Nancy Nelson was taken into the lobby of Judge Sanderson, to refute previous testimony that she was not properly cared for.

UPSET BY KIDNAPING.

Continuing her direct examination, Mrs. Nelson, who is contesting her husband's suit for divorce, testified that the child's nightdress produced in court was clean when she put it on Nancy. Following the kidnaping of the child, the mother said that four days elapsed before she learned where the girl had been taken. During this time Mrs. Nelson testified she was almost frantic.

She denied that Nancy kept irregular hours, declaring that the child was put to bed at 6 o'clock each night during the Winter and at 7 in the Summer. Her meals were given at regular hours.

The witness said that she never asked the former maid, Esther Keaney, to tell falsehoods, and that she was forced to discharge this woman because of her actions.

Mrs. Nelson denied that she attempted to conceal her residence at the Grammatan Inn, declaring that she had spoken of it in a letter to her husband.

Regarding her visit to the office of Mr. Green in New York, Mrs. Nelson testified that she went there to oblige a woman friend and her husband, who had a relative in the naval parade which they wished to witness. The party went to the office, in which there were about eighty persons, she said, all watching the parade. This was on December 26, 1918.

She said when Nelson came in he dragged her into the hall and kissed her head against the wall. Nancy began to cry and said: "Don't hurt mother," she testified.

Nelson also gave her but $40 for her hotel bill when the full amount was $70, Mrs. Nelson declared.

NO "WHISTLE" SIGNALS.

Under cross-examination she denied that a Mr. Cottell whistled when he went by her house and that she then went to ride with him.

The self-possession which Mrs. Nelson has shown since the beginning of the trial deserted her today when questioned about her love for the child.

When asked if she desired the care and custody of their daughter Nancy, five and one-half years old, Mrs. Nelson replied in the affirmative, and then gave way to violent weeping.

The mother denied statements made by her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Bunting, that the child's bed and bed clothing were untidy. She declared that Nancy loved her and wanted to remain with her. The child, she said, always remonstrated against the visits to her father.

"Do you love Nancy?" she was asked.

"Yes," she replied.

Q.—Do you want the care and custody of her? A.—Yes, sir.

The examination ceased for several minutes until Mrs. Nelson regained her composure.

TELLS OF "SCENE."

Previously she had told the court that her husband created an ugly scene in the Gramatrian Inn at Bronxville, N. Y., on Christmas Day of 1918, while she was dancing with James B. Green, whom Nelson has named as co-respondent.

The wife said that Nelson came on to the dance floor without removing hat or overcoat and with a cigar in his mouth, interrupted her dance with Green and forcibly led her from the room.

"He pushed me up the stairs, using profanity and then threw me against the wall," she declared.

Mrs. Nelson said she wrote an eighteen-page letter to her husband's mother that night telling her about the ballroom incident, but never received a reply.

While on the stand Mrs. Nelson denied writing the affectionate letter to Green which figured so prominently in the husband's side of the case and which a handwriting expert identified as hers.

Several witnesses were presented by Mrs. Nelson's attorney today to refute the charge of the husband that she was lax in the care of the child. Mrs. Anna Hill, janitress of an apartment house at No. 64 Charlesgate East, where Mrs. Nelson lived with her daughter from March to June of last year, said that she saw Mrs. Nelson and Nancy daily during that time, that the child was always neat and the apartment kept orderly.

TELLS OF CHILD'S CONDUCT.

Ella E. Ferguson, housekeeper of the Cliff Hotel at Scituate, where the mother and daughter lived for a while, declared that the unusually neat appearance and conduct of the child caused many favorable comments from other guests.

Fritz W. Ritter, a barber at the Hotel Kenmore, said that he cut the child's hair every other week and gave it a shampoo.

OSBORNE QUITS THE NAVY

Resignation of Prison Head Approved, Is Sent to Washington

Portsmouth, N. H., March 8.—The resignation of Lieutenant-Commander Thomas Mott Osborne, approved by Rear Admirals Halstead and Herbert O. Dunne, was forwarded to Washington today.

In relinquishing command of the Naval Prison, Commander Osborne said that, now the "silly" charges against him were disposed of, he felt that he could accomplish more prison reform as a civilian.

He also brought out, in a statement summing up what he had accomplished in his two years and seven months at the prison, that seven officers are serving sentences of from one to five years for offences including theft.

Commander Osborne further stated that strong influence had been brought to prevent these officers from serving the regulation prison uniform, but that the Navy Department had refused to grant these requests.

Lieutenant - Commander Osborne succeeded Colonel Harry Lee, U. S. M. C., as commandant of the naval prison, which at that time contained 6,844 prisoners. In his statement Commander Osborne declared that of these prisoners he had turned back to the navy 2,664 during the war. He stated that he had made a repair shop out of the institution, instead of a scrap heap.

The prison had seen no riots under his jurisdiction, he continued, no strikes, no brutalities, and no excessive punishments. He said that he had proved that the prison could be run with a minimum of friction to produce a maximum of good results. The only friction, he added, had come not from the prisoners but from politicians outside.

SCORES SHAKEN UP AS CARS COLLIDE

A score of passengers were shaken up, glass was broken and traffic was delayed an hour today when two street cars collided at Hyde Park avenue and Ashland streets, West Roxbury.

The accident occurred when a Readville bound car caught the end of an inbound Mattapan car on the crossover. The motorman of the Mattapan car, it is said, could not bring his car to a stop because of the slippery rails. The Readville car badly wrecked the one it rammed. No one was seriously injured.

VOLUNTEER POLICEMAN IS HELD FOR FORGERY

Louis A. Brown, thirty-three, a volunteer during the police strike, who is alleged to have used his position to pass forged checks, was brought back to Boston today from Buffalo. Brown, who gave his address as Waltham, but who is believed to be from Texas, is wanted on thirteen counts. It is alleged he obtained by false pretensions two diamond rings, one from a Boston jeweler and the other from a Cambridge jeweler.

JUDGE DROPS DEAD AFTER DANCE AT CLUB

Philadelphia, March 8.—Judge Henry N. Wessel, of the Court of Common Pleas, fell dead of heart disease after finishing a dance at the Mercantile Club.

For the first time in the history of Turkey, a Sultan has posed before the camera of an American photographer —a member of Hearst News. This remarkable concession was made by Mohammed VI., who is the son of the notorious Abdul Hamid, termed "Abdul the Damned" and the "Bloody Sultan," for Carl Wallen, who is making a tour of Turkey for the Hearst News.

The pictures, which have just reached this country and are published today by the Boston American, are doubly interesting in view of the decision of the allies to strip the Sultan of his army and navy.

RECORD ACHIEVEMENT.

It is interesting to note the difficulties overcome by Carl Wallen in being the first American photographer to accomplish what no other American has ever before accomplished.

The Koran says that it is wicked to make any image of man. Naturally, the picture-making seance was done in secret. The following extract from Mr. Wallen's letter is interesting material, showing how a Hearst News camera man overcomes obstacles. He says:

"Mohammed VI. has given me permission to make as many photographs and as much motion picture material as I could get within two minutes. Needless to say, the signal honor is appreciated.

SULTAN WAS SULLEN.

"I was ushered into the throne room of the royal palace. The shades were down. It looked as solemn as an Egyptian grave and as dark as ink. Some place for a picture. The audience was to last two minutes.

"I walked over to where I liked like a window, pulled up the shade and said, 'Suit. If you want photomade, you must get into the light.' The Sultan posed about two minutes, bowed stiffly, and the audience was over.

"I got hold of one of the richly decorated sides and announced to him that, if Mohammed VI. desired to give Americans concrete evidence of his existence, he'd behave and be photographed.

"At the risk of his life, the aide conveyed my request to Mohammed VI. The Sultan came back and, regardless of what the Koran said, the pictures were made—and here they are."

FINE AUTOISTS FOR DRIVING ON L TRACK

Four motorists charged with driving on the street car reservations on Columbia road, paid fines of $5 each in Dorchester court today. They were Harry Stephenson, twenty-six, of Dorchester avenue, Fields Corner; Michael Satter, twenty-three, of Seneca street, South End; Maurice Slupinsky, twenty-two, of Savin street, Roxbury, and Raymond A. Melcher, twenty-one, of Broadway, Revere.

THREE DRUNK CASES IN EAST BOSTON COURT

Three men charged with drunkenness were in the East Boston Court today. Patrolman Poole said that Arthur J. O'Donnell, while intoxicated, had called him names and resisted arrest. He was fined $5. Cornelius J. Keating, of Princeton street, East Boston, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was placed on probation. Another case was turned over to the probation officer.

$30,000 DAMAGE DONE BY WORCESTER BLAZE

Worcester, March 8.—Fire in the basement of the Ellsworth Building at Nos. 74 and 78 Front street damaged the building to the extent of $5,000. The American Supply Company, Inc., a department store occupying the entire eight-story building, sustained $30,000 smoke damage.

Kaiser's Son Is Barred by Head Waiter

By International News Service.

Berlin, March 8.—Prince Joachim, sixth son of the ex-Kaiser, was given a lesson by a waiter in Germany's new democracy today that would have earned him a five-year prison sentence for lese majeste two years ago.

The Prince, who had figured in a wild scene at the Adlon Hotel on Saturday night, when he and a party of friends hurled crockery at members of the French mission because they did not rise when the orchestra played "Deutschland uber Alles," again appeared in the dining room and ordered Herr Selsner, the head waiter, to find a "good table."

"Sorry, sir, but you cannot be served here," replied the waiter.

"What's that!" roared Prince Joachim.

"You know what it means," replied the waiter. "You were responsible for what happened Saturday night. You will never be served in this hotel again, so you need not come here."

The waiters and cooks will stop work if we attempt to serve you."

Prince Joachim, red in the face, departed hastily.

Minister of Defence Noske is reported to have ordered the provisional arrest of Joachim.

Joachim's wife, Princess Marie Auguste, is now suing for divorce because of his wild night life and his many escapades like that of Saturday night.

Herr Selsner, in explaining the incident, said that the employes of the Adlon had a "workmen's council" like the rest of the German business houses and that they were regulating affairs.

BUYERS TO CUT COST OF MEAT

Government to Line Up Consumers to Bring Down Living Prices

Washington, March 8.—The high cost of living campaign of the Department of Justice, which has been in progress since last October, now is to take a new departure.

Foiled in their attempts to reduce the cost of necessities which have gone steadily upward month by month, officials of the department announced that they were going to show the public how to get cheaper meat.

This new plan can be briefly summarized as follows:

"The public should buy inferior grades of meat, thereby getting them for less money."

The new undertaking of the Department of Justice economists is to be in the nature of an educational campaign. Here is a summary of the department's announcement:

"With the present unequal demand for the various cuts at retail, some meat is diverted to other than its natural use and other meat is wasted. This loss is ultimately borne by the consumer.

"The Department of Justice proposes with the aid of the consumer to correct this situation. Fair price commissioners in every State will be asked to direct and take part in the campaign of education.

"The Department of Justice will keep a close eye on market conditions to make sure that the consumer receives good meat at low prices and that, if the consumers turn to the cheaper cuts, no illicit profit shall be taken thereon.

WILSON WRITES VIEWS ON PACT

Final Statement on Reservations for Benefit of Members of Senate

By International News Service.

Washington, March 8.—President Wilson has prepared a letter stating his position on reservations to the Peace Treaty, it was announced at the White House today.

The letter is written to Senator Hitchcock, and is in reply to the request that the President receive Senator Simmons, who was delegated to explain the Democratic Senators' position to the President.

The President's position will be plainly stated for the benefit of the Senate, it was stated. It is generally understood that the President refused to accept reservations to Article X. of the League of Nations covenant.

The letter, to be forwarded today, will be the "final statement of the President's position" on the matter, it was learned at the White House. It is understood that the President will state his position on the Fall reservations on Article X.

President Wilson is convinced the peace treaty will be the big issue of this year's presidential campaign, whether the Senate now ratifies it or not. The President has so informed those who have access to him.

Attorney-General Palmer, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration's campaign manager, and Senator Glass of Virginia, until recently a member of the President's Cabinet, are among those the President told the treaty would not be kept out of the campaign by any action of the Senate.

CORNELL RAISES $111,325 IN ITHACA

Ithaca, N. Y., March 8.—The Cornell campaign committee in this city has just announced that the total raised to date in Ithaca is $111,325. This includes $40,525 raised during the first three hours of the intensive campaign conducted by the citizens' committee. The sum of $61,700 was contributed by local members of the university board of trustees and the balance by Cornell graduates residing in Ithaca and members of the university faculty.

FINE SAUSAGE DEALER IN TAINTED MEAT CASE

Philip W. Rounsevell, a wholesale dealer in sausages in Blackstone street, was charged in the municipal court today with having in his possession tainted meat intended for manufacture of frankfurters. He was fined $50 and appealed. Police officers testified that Rounsevell was fined $30 last year for a similar offence.

20 FLEE WEST END FIRE

Two Children With Measles Are Rescued at Poplar Street Blaze

Twenty persons, including two children sick with the measles, were driven into the street scantily clad early today when fire was discovered at No. 24 Poplar street.

Patrolman John Wagner of the Joy Street Station discovered the smoke coming from the windows on the fourth floor. When he started in the front entrance to awaken the occupants the front stairway was ablaze. He broke the doors with his club and then sounded the fire alarm.

Meanwhile one of the occupants on the top floor rushed to the roof and fired three shots from a revolver, awakening the other occupants of the house.

The fire had been burning for some time before it was discovered and had cut off all escape in the front of the building. The tenants were forced to go over the rear fire escape to safety.

Mrs. Louis Rubin, who occupies the first floor with her husband and year-old son Harry, were forced to jump to the street from their apartment, a distance of several feet.

Max Lipsky and wife, Harry Wiener and wife, Ella Simonds, Louis Wiener and Jacob Kolekoff and wife, the other tenants, all made their exit over the rear fire escape.

Five families at No. 28 Poplar street, next door, were forced to flee from their apartments to the street when the blaze filled their tenements and the blaze threatened to go through the walls.

Max Rubin, aged five, and Isadore Rubin, aged ten, both sick with the measles, were carried to the home of a neighbor by their parents, Mrs. K. Rubin and husband. Two other children, Louis and Sam, were asleep in the house at the time.

Other tenants were awakened by citizens throwing ice at the windows.

350,000 WILL STRIKE IF RENTS STAY HIGH

New York, March 8.—The threat of the Central Federation Union to direct a strike by the 350,000 members of affiliated unions unless the high rent situation is remedied in no mean fashion, was the declaration of Ernest Bohm, secretary of the union.

"While we feel that the Mayor's rent committee has done all that it can, there must be some other means devised by the city authorities to bring relief," he said.

HEAR DECEASED SING AT FUNERAL SERVICES

Mt. Vernon, Ill., March 8. — The widow of W. M. Smith, who was his second wife, filed suit with other mourners heard "Rock of Ages" sung by Smith and his first wife at his funeral services here.

Husband and wife sang the hymn into a phonograph six years previously and the record was played as part of the burial service.

KEEP GOING AFTER MONEY FOR HARVARD

HOT PEPPER TEA POURED IN NOSE

Cruelty of Japanese Police to Korean Prisoners Told by Mission Worker

London, March 8.—The efforts of the new Japanese administration of Korea to recover the confidence of the Korean people are largely nullified by official maltreatment of Koreans, says the Tokio correspondent of the Express.

While the use of the saddle as a flogging implement is abolished by the government, police officials regularly use torture in the examination of suspects. The following particulars of the methods employed are furnished by Dr. Frank Schofield of the Severance mission hospital, Seoul:

"An educated young man, punished with ninety blows of the paddle for complicity in the independence movement and released after six weeks' imprisonment, was rearrested and questioned with regard to the bomb that was thrown at Admiral Saito. During the police examination he was seven times suspended from the ceiling by a cord tied around his wrists; on five occasions his head was tied back and water was poured down his nostrils. Then soap and water was used.

"As a last expedient in this line, pepper tea was used. The reaction was so severe that the young man became comatose. All these methods having failed, the police ordered his toenails to be extracted.

"Another young man was beaten unconscious three times in six days, and once burns with red hot irons."

THE ANT and THE GRASSHOPPER

In the old fable the Grasshopper came begging to the Ant when cold weather set in. "What were you doing all summer?" asked the Ant. "Dancing, replied the Grasshopper. "Very well," returned the Ant, "you danced all summer, now you may starve all winter." The other name of the Grasshopper is the Man-Who-Did-Not-Put-His-Money-in-the-Bank.

FINBAR KNIGHTS GIVE $3,000

Leads List of Organizations in Purchase of Irish Republic Bonds

Appropriating $3,000 for Irish bond certificates and pledging individual subscriptions, the Knights of St. Finbar of the Cork Men's Association tops the list of organizations contributing to the fund for the maintenance of the Irish Republic, according to a report given out today at the quarters of the American Commission on Irish Independence.

Another large subscription recorded today was from the Building Laborers' Union, No. 223, which voted $1,000, a check for that amount being signed by Thomas Maroney, president, and John H. Sullivan, treasurer. Other labor organizations reported varying amounts.

South Boston leads in district collections, with a total of $20,000, according to the actual deposits in the Federal Trust Company. Additional pledges, approximating $5,000, are in the hands of the local committee of the Peninsula district.

Through the efforts of John J. Ridge of the South Boston Gaelic School and a well organized corps of assistants $4,500 has been collected. Of this amount $2225.50 represents contributions and collections by members of the school. The Mayo Men's Association subscribed $2,000, and George A. Stuart, general manager of the Mitchell Woodbury Company of Atlantic avenue, gave $100.

Four Irish colleens, dressed in Irish costumes, volunteered today to sing and dance to raise funds for the drive. They are the Misses Jennie Reidy, Julia Harrington, Bridget Harrington and Julia Sullivan.

Dr. J. F. Tynan, "Premier Sinn Feiner" of South Boston, has taken time from his professional duties to organize a precinct team in Ward 10 under the direction of Miss May Corbett and Ruth Chapman.

Precinct 9 of Ward 9, under the direction of Patrick Hynes, has members of the Padraic Pearse branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, on its team, prominent among them are Richard Keating and Philip J. Corbett, Mrs. Andrew Crimmins and Mrs. Patrick Dinneen.

Michael J. Curran, vice-chairman of Ward 9, World War veteran and member of Division 26, Military Company, A. O. H., has enlisted the services of a flying squadron of service men to assist in the drive. John McCarthy, a member of Archbishop Michale Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, is a candidate for individual collection honors in Boston, having already secured subscriptions totalling over $2,000.

Old Colony Lodge No. 145, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, have voted $100 for the purchase of bonds, and Division 2, A. O. H., East Boston, also bought $100 worth.

'WETS' OPEN BIG COURT BATTLE

Three States Make Attack on 'Dry' Law Before U. S. Supreme Court

Washington, March 8.—A battle is on today before the Supreme Court to invalidate the prohibition law.

Arguments declaring the Volstead Act unconstitutional were made by legal representatives of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Kentucky, in injunction proceedings brought against the "dry" measure.

The State of Rhode Island, through Attorney-General Rice, attacks the validity of the prohibition amendment on the ground that it takes a State's "reserved power without its consent."

Kentucky is fighting the measure on the grounds that the act takes property without due process of law. The grounds on which the "dry" law is being attacked from Massachusetts are unique. The petition from that State claims that to be effective each State must have an enforcement act exactly like the national law, or otherwise it is ineffective.

Elihu Root, acting as one of counsel for the United Brewers' Association, filed a brief with the Supreme Court, attacking the prohibition amendment as unconstitutional in not having been legally ratified by three-fourths of the States and contending that questions raised as to its constitutionality are justifiable.

AROUSE "DRY" FORCES.

The determined efforts being made in all parts of the country to nullify the national prohibition act are alarming the "dry" forces. The Anti-Saloon League is sending out distress calls, warning their forces against a reaction. The officers of the league have joined with the government to present arguments today in favor of the "wet" measure.

These are the signs which the Anti-Saloon leaguers say are ominous:

Many Massachusetts districts voting in November for four per cent. alcoholic drinks.

New Jersey's election of a "wet" governor.

Rhode Island's four per cent. beer measure.

Wisconsin's bill fixing the alcoholic content of beer at two and a half per cent.

Ohio's defeat of a law to enforce the prohibition provisions of the State Constitution and its disapproval of the action of its Legislature in ratifying the Eighteenth Amendment.

The granting by judges in Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, New York and Rhode Island of injunctions restraining Federal officials from enforcing prohibition laws.

DEFENDS AMENDMENT.

Wayne W. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, made application to file a brief in the Kentucky and Massachusetts cases.

The brief set forth that the Eighteenth Amendment w as legally submitted by Congress to the States for rejection or ratification; that the people of a State cannot reserve power to act in the matter of ratification of a Federal amendment without further amending the Federal Constitution; that the ratification of an amendment to the Constitution is a legislative act and cannot be subject to a referendum; that concurrent power to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment by appropriate legislation authorizes both State and nation to enact prohibition laws, but not license or permissive laws.

The brief said that a State prohibition code may contain more drastic provisions than the Federal code, but such State enactments cannot permit what the Federal act prohibits; that in case of conflict between the Federal and State laws, the courts are bound to support the Federal statutes as supreme laws; that Congress has the power to enact a prohibition code and that all the provisions of the Federal code have a reasonable relation to the enforcement of the law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and are constitutional.

LAWRENCE TOPS $25,000 MARK IN BOND DRIVE

Lawrence, March 8.—The $25,000 mark in the Irish bond drive has been passed, but the drive will continue until March 17, when a monster celebration will end the activities of the solicitors. This week will be devoted to cleaning up the house to house canvas. The drive is meeting big success in Methuen and the Andovers, where many bonds of high denomination are being bought. A North Andover branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom will be formed this week.

CANTON HONORS HER EX-SOLDIERS THURSDAY

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards and the ex-soldier residents of Canton will be tendered a reception and testimonial banquet by the citizens of that town Thursday evening. About 500 are expected to attend the exercises, which will be held in the Town Hall. Gilbert Tolman is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

NEW YORK IS AFTER 10 PER CENT. WINES

Albany, N. Y., March 8.—A bill to legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.50 per cent. beer and 10 per cent. wines will be introduced in the Assembly tonight by Colonel Ransom H. Gillette, Assemblyman from Columbia County. The measure would limit the sale of these beverages to clubs, hotels and restaurants.

Joe Donahue of the Dartmouth Club will preside and Harry McDevitt will be in charge of the musical program. All Dartmouth men, whether members or not of the Dartmouth Club, are invited to attend the luncheon.

HOLD 65 ALLEGED REDS IN WATERBURY RAID

Waterbury, Ct., March 8.—In a round-up of alleged radicals here, 394 men and women were taken into custody by Federal agents, who also seized a large amount of "Red" literature. Sixty-five men and one woman were held for further examination. The prisoners are members of the Union Russian Citizens and the Union Russian Workers.

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday March 6th, on shipments sold out, ranged from 12.00 cents to 21.25 cents per pound and averaged 15.53 cents per pound."—Advt.

$1,000,000 Fund to Be Shared by Harvard, Radcliffe, Art Museum and Two Homes

The will of Mrs. Clara B. Kimball, of No. 48 Commonwealth avenue, wife of David P. Kimball, which was filed in the Suffolk Registry of Probate today, contains public bequests to the amount of $170,000, and private gifts aggregating many thousands of dollars.

A trust fund of $1,000,000 will eventually go to Radcliffe College, Harvard University, Boston Museum of Fine Arts, each of which is to receive one-fourth, and to the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children, and to the Bertram Home for Aged Men in Salem, the two last named to each take one-eighth.

The public bequests of Mrs. Kimball are: Radcliffe College, $60,000; Wellesley College, $25,000; Museum of Fine Arts, $25,000; North Bennet Street Industrial School, Bertram Home for Aged Men, Salem, Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, $10,000 each; Nursery for Blind Children, Home for Aged Colored Women, Elisabeth Peabody House Association, $3,000 each; Frances Willard Settlement, Associated Charities of Boston, Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children, Children's Mission to the Children of the Destitute, New England Home for Little Wanderers, North End Union, Dedham Temporary Home for Women and Children and the Animal Rescue League, $2,000 each.

The will also providese $1,000 each to the Society for the Employment of Bible Readers, Bethesda Society, Women's Education and Industrial Union, Benevolent Fraternity of Churches and the Newsboys' Reading Room Association.

Mr. Kimball, who is left the residue, is also given $50,000 to use for such charitable purposes as he may desire. He is named as executor and trustee.

After the death of Mr. Kimball, the Museum of Fine Arts is to have Mrs. Kimball's collection of peachblow vases and four paintings, two of which are by Corot and Daubingy.

The trust fund of $1,000,000 is established for the benefit of Mrs. Kimball's son, her two daughters, grandchildren and the wife of a son. Upon the death of the last beneficiary the fund is to be distributed.

The part taken by Harvard is to be applied to the instruction, education and maintenance of poor and meritorious undergraduates at the discretion of the president and fellows.

Fashion Week in Boston

Finds Our Women's, Misses' and Children's Apparel Sections Radiant with a Comprehensive Assemblage of NEW SPRING FASHIONS

Side by side with models from the most eminent designers of America will be shown many coming from the master couturiers of Paris

Fashion tells us that one's COAT may be long or short, fitted, loose flowing or wrappy—FROCKS contradict all rules of consistency by offering silhouettes, bouffants and those straight and clinging—while SUITS make their appearance in Eton and slender effects

Of special interest will be our Window and Store Interior Displays of New Spring Fashions—plan to see the windows—plan to see the interior displays—plan to see all our Fashion Week Showings.

The New Spring Hats

A MARKED Egyptian influence is perhaps a most interesting feature about the Spring Millinery. It is most charmingly reflected in Hats of lemon, lotus and citrene tones. In contour, too, from the land of sphinxes many close-fitting, small mode take inspiration. Others of bright liseres, sipper straw, patent leather and glittering cellophane have abruptly upturned brims and brilliant trimmings. Picture Hats are developed of horse hair and malines. Typical Sports Hats are fashioned of felt and ribbon modes. Some of the most alluring colorings are of jade, turquoise, geranium and Russia leather—and last but not least in importance, are the Flower Hats that are wreathed, banked and topped with gay blooms.

7.50 to 125.00

The New Spring Suits

HAND tailoring of the highest custom character is particularly emphasized in these exclusive and individual New Spring Suits, including exact Paris reproductions. The Three-piece Costume Suit. The New Cape Suit of Pongee and Duvtyn combined. The New Eton Suit with accordion skirt. The New 26-inch Straight-from-the-shoulder Coat are but a few of the many.

Paris decrees the Spring Suit shall be of slender lines and that skirts be from seven to twelve inches from the floor.

Coats vary in length from the short Eton and Box coat to hose that reach within ten inches of the bottom of the skirt.

Sleeves are three-quarters or full length.

Spring materials—Tricotine, Serge, Poiret Twill, Hard Mannish Serge, Gabardine, Faille de Laine, Oxford Melton.

35.00 to 295.00

The New Spring Blouses

ONE may select hand-made blouses from France, exquisite in the fineness of hand fagoting, hand embroidery, lace insertions and hand-run tucks, or lingerie blouses made lovely with drawn-work done in faraway Filipino villages, to say nothing of the hundreds of domestic styles. Fashioned of batistes, voiles and handkerchief linens. In Georgette, mignonette and crepe de chine smart silk blouses have been developed. Gay embroidery, beading and appliqued designs adorn them, making a smart costume when combined with a tailleur or silk skirt.

Cotton Blouses 2.00 to 60.00
Silk Blouses 7.50 to 50.00

The New Spring Gowns

FASHION'S partiality to taffeta and Jersey weaves for Spring Frocks is one of the outstanding features of this particular display. Very appealing are the plain and printed Georgette Frocks with patterns outlined effectively with beads. Other Georgette Frocks nonchantly assume cascade draperies at the hips, low waistlines or Turkish hems. Developed of taffeta are Frocks Eton in tendency, bouffant at the hips, muchly beruffled or plain. And many tailored modes in tricotine and tricolette.

29.50 to 295.00

The New Spring Coats

SOFT lines, graceful drapes and pleatings dominate the new wraps and coats for Spring that are developed in new fabrics of delicate texture, ranging from rough tweeds and polo cloth for utility wear to soft duvetyns, bolivias and silk cashmeres. Novel collars and cuffs, distended pockets, self-cordings and fancy stitching are effectively employed as trimmings.

39.50 to 250.00

The New Spring Skirts

IN separate skirts slender lines prevail, although entire plaited skirts or panels of plaitings give added width to many models. For sports and general wear nothing has quite the popularity of the plaid skirt. In satin, baronet, Kumsi-Kumsa and other novelty silks, afternoon skirts are more decorative and adapted for sport or Southern wear.

15.00 to 50.00

The New Spring Sweater

OF soft, fine yarn, including zephyr, alpaca, vicuna and mohair. Lovely, too, and just as novel is the silk sweater in surplice effect. Its surplice ends encircle the waist and tie in an engaging bow at the back. Captivating in their dash and youthfulness are slip-on models of gaily colored wools that occupy an important part in Spring sweater styles. Simple types prevail for those whose tastes are more conservative. Peacock blue, rose, gold, orchid and jade are some of the colors from which one may choose.

7.50 to 45.00

New Styles for the Large Woman

A COLLECTION that should prove of infinite joy to women who in the past have been forced to accept indifferent styling simply because they required larger sizes.

Slenderizing coats and suits fashion has set out to make the stout woman appear svelte and she has accomplished her purpose very cleverly and satisfactorily in these coats and suits. They are long and graceful in line and smart in the choicest colorings and fabrics.

Suits 39.50 to 175.00
Coats 65.00 to 169.50

STRAIGHTLINE frocks are chic—and especially becoming to the larger proportioned woman. These are so designed and tailored as to set off the figure to its best advantage—in tricolette, Georgette, taffeta, satin, serge and tricotine.

29.50 to 169.50

Extra Size Skirts 22.50 to 42.50
Extra Size Blouses 2.95 to 50.00

For Social Affairs Feather Fans in Sapphire, Jade, American Beauty, Dawn, Pink, Cerise and Orchid, 12.50. Spanish Hair Combs, plain and carved, 2.00 to 10.00—set with stones, 5.00 to 20.00

FASHION WEEK IN BOSTON MARCH 8-13

BOSTON STORES EXHIBIT CHIC CREATIONS FOR MILADY

"Fashion Week in Boston" has come again. For seven delightful days the Athens of America will be forced to serious consideration of giddy Paris creations and latest styles in everything which goes to make up Milady's wardrobe, from gorgeous hats to dainty slippers.

Not that Boston has not indulged in such frivolity before. But there has never been quite such a week as the one coming, when practically without exception, department stores, shoe shops and specialty shops of the city, from the most humble to the most exclusive, will all have their formal opening during the second week of March.

DISPLAYS GORGEOUS.

Each store will be dressed in its best both upon the inside and outside. The window displays will be quite extravagant, of course, and in consequence "window shopping" will be one of the favorite sports of the time. The interior will be in gala array as well, and, altogether, it will be a week not so much of buying as of coming to see.

Madame Shopper may go about from shop to shop serene in her knowledge that to one will deny her the privilege of "just looking" to her heart's content. She may also be sure that not fascinating things are hidden away in mysterious stock rooms for display at some future date. The best Spring merchandise that Boston has seen since the war will be on display for Madame Shopper to see.

What woman's heart fails to quicken at the prospect of several delightful hours each day spent amid bewildering gown creations, gorgeous hats, the daintiest and airiest of lingerie, the most graceful of foot wear, the most Summery of volles and brightest of silks, and the most beautiful of accessories—fans, bags, neckwear, earrings, necklaces and the like? And in such a week not only the Hub but entire New England will swell.

BRINGS MANY VISITORS.

Last Fall when the first "Fashion Week in Boston" was held, visitors from all corners of New England poured in by the hundreds, to such an extent that the hotel capacity of the city was taxed. It has been predicted that this year, with the added attractions of the opera, and several good plays which will be here that week, the influx from other cities to Boston will exceed by far the number brought to this city by Fashion Week of last Fall.

It is to the Retail Trade Board, Boston Chamber of Commerce, that the credit of the stupendous task of bringing the merchants together for this simultaneous opening is given. Several of the stores plan to have special features during Fashion Week, and many treats are in store for the discerning shopper.

The stores participating in the event are: A. Shuman & Co.; Butler's, Inc.; The Shepard Stores; H. T. Slattery Company; Wm. Filene's Sons Company; Felix Kornfeld Company; R. H. Hazzan; The Bedell Company; Peter L. Flynn Company; Jay's, Inc.; Rice & Hutchins, Inc.; E. W. Burt Company; Jackson & Co.; Meyer Jonasson Company; Chandler's Corset Store and Femina Shop; Conrad Company; Byron K. Bailey Company; T. E. Moseley Company; A. H. Howe & Co.; Jordan Marsh Company; R. H. White Company; Gilchrist Company; C. F. Hovey Company; Manahan's, Inc.; MacDonnell's, Inc.; Thayer, McNeil Company; L. P. Hollander & Co.

YANKEE REPORTERS TOO FAST FOR MAJOR GEORGE

Chicago, March 5.—Traditions of Fleet Street journalism were brought into plain American reporting by Major R. Lloyd George, son of England's Premier, during his recent visit here.

"You're much too speedy for me, you American reporters," he said to a flock of news hounds seeking interviews. "Really, I shall have to abide by my custom of granting presently interviews only by appointment. We'll make it at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning."

And at 10 the next day it was.

COURT RULES OUT OUIJA EVIDENCE

Chicago, March 8.—Ouija boards are "incompetent witnesses" in court, it was ruled here by a judge who heard a woman testify that her "spook table" had told her the man she accused had robbed her home.

VETS TO DEFINE 'AMERICANISM'

Legion Asks Members of Organization to Submit Compositions on Subject

Members of the American Legion throughout the country have been called upon by Arthur Woods, chairman of the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion, to submit a definition of "Americanism."

"In order to be as strong and helpful as possible, this definition should embody the ideas of a broad and representative group of members of the legion," said Mr. Woods. "An effort on the part of our million members to define the term '100 per cent. Americanism' would greatly help in adopting such a definition."

The commission has sent out questionaires to posts in the mining towns and where no post exists some ex-service men will be asked to help supply the information. Among the questions asked are the following:

"What local organizations are doing work among the foreign-born? In what ways do they work and with what success? What opportunities have the foreign-born to learn about America, its opportunities for education, learning trades and bettering their conditions? Does any one explain to them the advantages of becoming naturalized citizens? Are there any night schools where adults can learn English? What opportunities do the foreign-born have to meet native Americans? Where do they meet to get acquainted outside of the job?

"Do the mine owners or the churches provide any meeting places, such as community houses or parish halls? What kind of a deal have the foreign-born in your town had, since they have been in America? How do they feel about America? What can be done to give them a square deal if they have not received one? Do the working and living conditions discriminate against the foreigner and make him receptive to preachers of violence? Housing and neighborhood conditions should be studied before answering this question. In what way do you think the American Legion can best promote Americanism work among the foreign-born?"

"TO RENT—A WIFE" SIGN RESULTS IN DAMAGE SUIT

Chicago, March 5.—Recently persons in a South Side neighborhood were mystified by reading placards tacked up on telephone poles on which was inscribed:

TO RENT—A WIFE.
Apply to Julius Blackney.

The mystery was dispelled with the filing by Blackney of a damage suit against Henry W. Howe, a former boarder in the Blackney home. Blackney charges that while he was away to war his wife became "hard up' for money, and that, unable to collect it, Rowe began a slander campaign against Mrs. Blackney, will, the placards as the climax.

'Wet' Advocate Causes Uproar in Church

New York, March 8.—An attempt by a gray-haired stranger to heckle William H. Anderson, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, caused an uproar in the Marcy Avenue Baptist Church, Brooklyn.

The stranger, when Anderson was introduced by the pastor, insisted that the anti-saloon leader answer certain questions. When informed that questions from the floor would not be answered he subsided, but made another interruption when Anderson mentioned the Catholic Church and Cardinal Gibbons.

Leaving his seat and walking toward the door, the stranger expressed his opinion of Anderson in loud tones, while the anti-saloon man, ignoring the interruption, continued his address. When order had been restored, Anderson disclaimed any intention of attacking the Catholic Church.

"To show that I am not anti-Catholic," he said, "I have voted for Catholics who were on the right side of prohibition. Any attempt to violate the prohibition law is an attack upon the law and order, whether backed by Protestant, Jew or Catholic." He said many Catholic clergymen and laymen were in favor of prohibition and that an "overwhelming majority of them" are in favor of law and order.

LOST TREASURE REVEALED BY A FATAL EXPLOSION

Amsterdam, March 5.—A terrible explosion, with a strange sequel, has occurred at Gorinchem, in Gelderland. The family of Dirk Wonterzoon, a provision dealer, was dining when the room was rent as by an earthquake, and part of the ceiling fell on the diners, two of whom were crushed to death while Wonterzoon and a child of six were seriously injured.

Later it was discovered that the collapse of an old party wall had brought to light an oak box filled with gold and silver coin dating from the early sixteenth century and valued at more than $500,000.

MINISTERS INVESTIGATE CHICAGO'S 'BRIDE TRUST'

Chicago, March 5.—Baptist ministers have begun an investigation into Chicago's "wedding trust." They charge that a system exists whereby couples obtaining marriage licenses are coerced into having justices and other City Hall officials tie the knots.

CROOKS LEFT BOOZE, BUT IT GOES ANYWAY

Chicago, March 5.—Arriving home in time to see two burglars escaping through the front door with bags of loot, Edward A. Perlmutter was greatly relieved to discover they had taken only $4,500 in jewelry and had not disturbed his sideboard. He called the police, who spent much time hunting about the sideboard for finger prints.

A little later Mr. Perlmutter felt that a bit of a "kick" would not be amiss. But when he went there the sideboard was bare, and poor Edward didn't have even three fingers left.

FASHION WEEK IN BOSTON

MARCH 8-13

Fashion Week in Boston will afford a golden opportunity for the public throughout New England to view and to study a most exclusive display of apparel and accessories. In its own and individual way, each store will present new designs for Spring and Summer; each and every store will welcome your inspection. All the fashions assembled will be authentic and in the mode that will prevail throughout the season. It will be possible to examine, during a short period, all the choicest productions of the textile arts, the world's best designers and the workmanship of craft tailors. Fashion Week means concentrated effort and you are cordially invited to see what Boston has prepared for you, thru the co-operation of the Retail Stores.

Spring Fashions Resplendent at White's

A noteworthy feature of Fashion Week in Boston will be the window display at White's beginning this morning. These will deserve much attention, and will repay the long trips from out of town that many will take to see them.

In this unfolding of new things to wear Beauty and Striking Effect are not the only things sought for. More important, perhaps, is the informing nature of the occasion. For this week one meets face to face the styles one is to wear in the new season that is now ushered in.

What will you look for? There are the changes in silhouette, and the new colors of course. The new skirt lengths are important, and the widths. There is the increasing vogue of sport apparel, there is the lovelliness of the filmy and marvelously fluffy textures, and so many other things.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion sallow—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days—you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

CALLS FILM BILL 'DESPOTISM'

Dr. Fleischer Opposes Censor Board as Government by Personal Opinion

Dr. Charles Fleischer, leader of the Commons and prominent Boston sociologist, characterized today the movement to censor motion pictures by a State censor board as a movement toward government by personal opinion.

Dr. Fleischer, who has made exhaustive research into social conditions of Boston and Massachusetts, has taken up the fight against motion picture censorship as proposed under the bill for a State board of censors, now before the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs.

BOARD "DANGEROUS."

He attacks the measure as "undemocratic and dangerous," and declares that it will prove a stumbling block in the way of the evolution of the race toward higher levels.

"A censorship of motion pictures is despotism," said Dr. Fleischer.

"All despotism is by no means summed up in heredity rulers. In these superficially democratic days, perhaps the most pernicious and exasperating social force is the benevolent despotism of the 'very good,' who seek to 'save' society by the wholesale, if unwholesome, process of enforcing legislation.

"It is as vain an effort to attempt to promote morality, effectively and permanently, by legislative enactment as to try in any other wise to help society to lift herself by her spiritual boot-straps. The race does not grow appreciably better by that process; though the means may be justified if it gives the militantly good an outlet for a social passion, which is mainly inverted egotism and petty despotism.

"Among the most stupid and short-sighted efforts to impose despotically their neither wise nor just nor really high standards upon a too-patient public is the attempt to foist upon this Commonwealth a State censorship of motion pictures. The only principle involved, even if deserving criticism of this serviceable industry, is the principle of freedom of expression, whether in print or speech or pictures. Press, platform, theatre and church are equally involved.

USED AS POLITICAL WEAPON.

"The undemocratic passing and enforcement of prohibition before the evolved people themselves wanted it, may yet bear fruit in social revolution. So, too, the impatience of our 'very good' who can never wait for the rest of us to evolve to their high level, but must needs 'improve' society through censorship, may move the democratic masses to assert anew their loyalty to the ideal of self-government through freedom.

"Since government by personal opinion is undemocratic and dangerous, society is safest under self-protective law supported by the slow-sure evolution of the race toward always higher levels.

"In short, this bill violates the principle of the constitutional guaranty of a free press. It denies to the public the very utility in this wonderful new art which made it so necessary to keep the press free. It gives a few men despotic control over an art which, at the very threshold of its development, has the power to influence more than 20,000,000 people every day. It completes the vicious circle by making it inevitable that the powerful motion picture industry, already the fourth greatest in the country, will be precipitated into politics and used for political purposes by the party in power.

"Every reasonable protection to the public morals can be secured by the proper exercise of the local police power. The extraordinary power vested in a commission proposed to be created by this bill will not only prove ineffective to protect public morals as experience has shown, but it is utterly un-American in its character and in the highest degree dangerous from every point of view."

CAPITAL-LABOR PACT ADVISED

Representative Believes Bill He Has Filed Would Lower Cost of Living if Adopted

After months of study, Representative Elihu D. Stone, Boston, has proposed to the Legislature a definite plan for a partnership between capital and labor as a solution of the high cost of living and to promote good will between the employer and the worker.

The plan is unique. It will be proposed to the legislative committee on labor at a public hearing tomorrow.

Briefly, it is this:

The employes would be paid a living wage, based on the cost of living and the prevailing rate of wages for the same work in that locality. The stockholders would be paid a 6 per cent. dividend on the appraised valuation of the factories and stock. After the wages, dividends, taxes, depreciation, insurance and other expenses were subtracted from the gross receipts, the balance would be divided between the stockholders and the employes. Stone's bill is copiously supplied with detail for the practical operation of the plan.

Corporations using the water power of the State or energy generated from the water power and employing more than 500 hands, would adopt the plan. In the event of dispute between employer and employes over the valuation of the property or the living wage, the dispute would be arbitrated by a commission appointed by the State Department of Labor and Industries.

Stone's bill contains this illustration of how he claims the capital-labor partnership would work out:

Value of property	$1,000,000
Living wages paid (six months)	60,000
Dividends	30,000
Gross receipts	$13,000
Gross expenses	800,000
Net earnings for six months	13,000
Stockholders' share	6,000
Employes' share	12,000

The division of profits would be made every six months.

ACCUSED OF RIFLING GROCERY CASH DRAWER

Lawrence, March 8. — Charged with larceny, David McIntyre, twenty-eight years old, of No. 7 Broadway avenue, was arraigned in court here today. He is accused of rifling the cash drawer in a large Broadway grocery store while the clerk was out to lunch. A woman customer is said to have seen two men making a hasty getaway. Her description of them resulted in McIntyre's arrest.

ASKS PITTSFIELD PUBLIC TO SHOULDER SHOVELS

Pittsfield, March 8.—Mayor Louis A. Merchant has just issued a proclamation, in which he asks every man in this city to devote a part of today to assist in shoveling out the local lines of the Berkshire Street Railway Company. Officials of the road say that they cannot resume operations until Spring unless they have the assistance of a volunteer force in removing the snow and ice, which has tied up the service for several weeks.

GARIBALDI SEES WORLD WAR

First Jugo-Slav Shot Will Begin Conflagration, Says Liberator's Grandson

Paris, March 8.—The following statement by the grandson of the famous Italian patriot, Garibaldi, was obtained by Universal Service, with a view to recording the attitudes of that section of the Italian army that has been supporting Gabriele D'Annunzio's Fiume coup, either morally or physically, and which is evidently resolved to defend Fiume to the last and against all comers.

By GEN. PEPPINO GARIBALDI.

President Wilson's theory with regard to an Adriatic settlement is immaterial. The obstinacy of Jugo-Slavia is immaterial. The allies' feebleness is immaterial.

What counts is that Italy occupies de facto the territory in question and intends to keep it. D'Annunzio left Fiume so as not to embarrass the Italian government. However, should the Jugo-Slavs attack him with the army they are now assembling under General Sweeney, formerly of the American Expeditionary Force, Italy will launch eighteen divisions which are even now fully equipped on a war-footing, hovering near the border.

America does not realize the seriousness of the situation. The feeling in Italy is such that every man is ready to abandon everything and start the war all over again rather than give up Italy's rights to the Adriatic.

Let President Wilson encourage the Jugo-Slavs; let Sweeney start his legion. Their first rifle-shot will be the spark that will let loose a conflagration which is likely to plunge the world again into undreamed-of horrors of a new war.

OF DELICIOUS FLAVOR

Sealed Packets Only Black, Mixed or Natural Green

"Don't you want some?"

IF Bond Bread is even better than most home-made bread—it is due to your public-spirited committee of judges.

They spent hours in selecting the very best home-made loaves in the Bond Bread Baking Contest.

And those very top-notch loaves were the models for Bond Bread!

Supper time—

is Bond Bread time for him

—A bowl of cool, sweet milk—

—some nicely sliced Bond Bread—

—that's a supper fit for a king!

And he is the King of your house—

Bond Bread's delicious, home-made goodness isn't one bit too good for him!

The mothers of boys like him—they were the designers of Bond Bread.

In their own kitchens, they baked loaves of home-made bread as models for Bond Bread.

Then our baking experts took the best of these home-made loaves and copied their flavor and goodness into Bond Bread.

That's why mothers insist on Bond Bread for their children.

That's why the children need no urging to make a whole meal of Bond Bread and milk!

Bond Bread is so named because each loaf bears this bond of the General Baking Company.

Absorption Process Makes Faces Young

Success at last has come to scientists who for years have sought some method of removing the outer veil of facial skin in cases of unsightly complexions, which would be both painless and harmless. The new process is so simple, so inexpensive, the wonder is no one had discovered it long ago. It has been amply demonstrated that ounment mercolized wax (sold by druggists in ounce packages) entirely removes, by gentle absorption, the withered, lifeless surface skin, showing the youthful, roselike skin beneath. The wax is applied at night, like cold cream, and washed off in the morning. The absorption also cleanses clogged pores, increasing the skin's breathing capacity and preserving firm, color and natural beauty of the new skin.—Advertisement.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX On Life Beyond the Grave

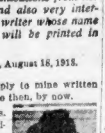
Letters of Poetess Reveal "Communications From the Spirit World"

(The following hitherto unpublished letters from America's greatest poetess to her favorite brother, Marcus P. Wheeler, Windsor, Wis., a Civil War veteran, constitute a remarkable human document. At one and the same time they set forth what she believed her certain knowledge of the life hereafter, based upon communications from her husband, Robert M. Wilcox, who died in 1916, and also very interesting sidelights on the daily life and views of this writer whose name is known to everyone who reads. These letters will be printed in daily instalments.)

In France, August 18, 1918.

Dear Marcus:—

Your letter of July 17th came this morning, in reply to mine written June 17th. You have two or three of mine written since then, by now.



I wrote you about our tour of one-night stands. Since we returned I have addressed several large audiences—the aviators' camp for one. That and the lines on the army phrase, "passing-the-buck" (which means let the other fellow do it), have been immensely popular. I have signed hundreds of typed copies for the boys. But the Girl from the U. S. A. has broken all records. I have autographed three hundred copies, and still the cry comes in for more. Yesterday word came that 60 wounded men at the hospital wanted copies. We took the army phrase, "passing-the buck" (which means let the other fellow do it), have been immensely popular. I am sending you two photographs just taken. They are called very good of course, of course—no stranger than I do. The retoucher takes out fine lines about the eyes and mouth which my face has developed in the last two years.

Until lately I went I really had no lines, but the loss of twenty pounds of plumpness and such continual weeping for sixteen months all had its effect. One old friend I met on a car the week before I sailed did not know me until I told her my name. She had seen me at a White breakfast in a beautiful gown just a few weeks before Robert's illness. But if you do not look too closely at me now I look as these photographs do. They were taken for my publisher, who wants the latest things for my book.

ROBERT COMMANDS TRIP.

I now expect to be to London by October 1. It is the command of Robert, who says wonderful experiences await me there. I do not want to go before next February, but he told me last October to come to France. I had no idea of such a trip. He urged and commanded until I came.

He commands me to leave Paris March 27 and to go to Dijon. I send copies of the messages to a half-dozen friends who saw realize how all he predicted has come true. He said a great new work for humanity awaited me. Will it came in my address.

Then he told me to go to Tours, where much new power and force would be given me. It has. Now he urges England, and I must obey.

I have just been reading such an interesting article in the "Nineteenth Century After," April number. Ask for it at the library if you are in town. It is an automatic writing by Mary E. Monteith. It shows the progress of the world when a great scientific personal like that will publish such a psychic article. The world does move.

I am hoping to develop the automatic writing, but at present have to have the vibrations of another person to help me obtain communications. (Just as I always had to get a telephone operator to connect wires when Robert was on earth, and I wanted to talk to him even between our two houses, the bungalow and barracks. So long as one of us is material, material means have to be used.)

I have a letter from the granddaughter of Sir Bulwer Lytton, the daughter of Owen Meredith, whom I met and lunched with in London six years ago. She has given me permission to use her letter on the subject of psychical things in my book. She is Lady Emily Lutyens (pronounced Likeny). She is a great student and highly educated, and simple as a child in her ways. Robert was enchanted with her. The background of such mentalities will help me to bear the fruitless days and end which will be cast at me after November 18th, when my final statements of my messages are published—that is, final in the magazine. The book will contain more.

There are 400 patients in the hospital here. These hot days are very trying to the wounded men, who are lying with legs strung up to the ceiling waiting for bones to set and fractures to heal. But they are a wonderful, every one, and all mad to get back to the fray.

Amazing cures are made there. Ten days ago we saw a boy with a jaw pierced by a bullet and his lip slit open in the centre and four teeth gone. Yesterday he was dancing about with his lip healing where they had cut off some flesh from one part and sewed it in the slit. He said he had never suffered a minute from the ether or the soreness caused by the stitches. In a few weeks he will be able to have the teeth replaced, and he will not be disfigured. But, of course, many are. We see false noses and cheeks being built on faces which have been shot to pieces.

While I was in the hospital a terribly sick German prisoner was brought in, about 19, and as thin as a skeleton. He was kindly cared for. I wondered how the Germans CAN be cruel and heartless to our sick prisoners, as we are told they are almost invariably. Full as I am of rage and indignation at the Germans, I felt only great pity for this suffering boy and wanted him to be relieved of pain. It seems a natural impulse, and there must be cases where it is shown in Germany.

I brought away about fifteen addresses last week from the hospital of parents the boys wanted me to write to. To all save one I wrote very positively of the certain recovery of the boys. To the mother in Mississippi I had to say the case was serious, but that her boy was not suffering and that he was receiving tender care, good skill and careful nursing and the best food, but that the end doctors felt his case was serious. They had told me to prepare her for the end as they knew must go before long. He is wounded in the spine, and they tell me he cannot recover. They said so again yesterday, although he was looking better and eating well, and had more strength.

Faithfully yours,
ELLA WHEELER WILCOX
Tours, Sept. 3, 1918.

Dear Marcus:—

We are just back from Saumur, the big military camp two hours from here, by train. We went Saturday P. M., and gave an entertainment to hundreds of aviators that evening in a beautiful garden. We had a gorgeous success, and the men sang for us afterward. It was inspiring.

The next day we appeared at noon before the engineers, and they were eating at the battery camp. That was outdoors too. In a most splendid setting of nature—great trees and the river, and a wonderful sunset. All the men were from Wisconsin—some 500, I think. It seemed so interesting to think I was giving them the pleasure they said I did. Their officers and their secretary said no one had ever held their attention more fully, and a lot of them came up and thanked me personally.

TALKS TO BIBLE CLASS.

Then, just listen! The clergyman asked me to give a few minutes' talk to his Y. M. C. A. Bible class! I thought I couldn't, but Robert seemed to nudge me to say "yes," so I did it and made good. I didn't have to touch on Atonement or Salvation by vicarious loafing—I just talked will power and big ideals and the need of them in the midst of their temptation, and how self-conquest meant character-building, and that meant a much better place and outlook after death; and then gave them Robert's message about death being the beginning of life. Well, it blew the orthodox church in getting into line, as the clergyman came and thanked me and said I had done the men incalculable good.

I had the best time those two days of all the time in France.

I'm leaving here September 23 for Paris, then to London early in October.

Faithfully,
ELLA.

France, Sept. 12, 1918.

Dear Marcus—I was just in the last five minutes of my reading, when the courier rapped and brought in four big envelopes. I had a letter from Mrs. Parke about a year ago. Of course she knows whereof she speaks, because it has been a life study and investigation with all of them. They were among the early sensible, balanced people to come into the truth of it.

When you read the book I am translating ("Life and Destiny" by Leon Denis) it will make clear to you many phases of the subject. Mr. Denis has given fifty years to it and knows it from A to Z. I did not for a long time believe materializations were possible. Just as real diamonds always are followed by counterfeits, this great truth has many counterfeits (proving there is a real thing to counterfeit), and I thought materializations were faked, while I knew messages came.

But now I know that all things we ever were or did or thought are photographed on the Etheric (astral body) which exists in all our chain of lives—and that under certain conditions they are printed anew as a photo from a negative. That those things usually take place in a dark room is no stranger than the dark developing room of the photographer. Personally, I have never seen a materialisation, but have seen some faked ones. But Lombroso and Myer—great men of science—declare the true ones, and so does Mr. Denis.

Robert assures me in his messages that he will yet develop one so I will see him. Remarkable power came last evening when my two friends, Madame Colnard, was here. There were four cultivated French people. Mrs. Randall and I, Madam Colnard and I were at the board, and Robert wrote so rapidly it was almost impossible to read. He had wonderful messages have come when my friends and I were blindfolded and a third person took them down. That was the only way I could assure myself that the other person was not (consciously or unconsciously) moving the board.

Here I am not blindfolded as Mme. Colnard does not know one word of English and never knows what the message means till I translate them. Robert says mighty forces are about me and a great band of his friends are planning my life and work, and he wants me to be contented to stay and help him to get the messages to humanity.

"Keep your faith—we are to give the world light," he wrote yesterday.

Robert says I will be bindgeened, but that the book will act as a "wedge to heaven" for thousands of minds. His marvelous predictions for me in England I have sent to

Bullet Breaks Dream of Heavy Sleep

John P. Giovanni of No. 202 Beacon street, Somerville is a heavy sleeper. This morning he refused to wake when his roommate, Giovanni Gagliada, shook him. Even shouting failed to disturb his slumbers.

Then Gagliada had a bright idea. He awoke his friends by discharging a revolver.

BAY STATE VISIT PLEASES WOOD

General Hopes to See Both Lodge and Gillett at Chicago Convention

General Leonard Wood expressed satisfaction with his Massachusetts visit when he left Boston, the only cloud in his pre-campaign flying trip being that he was unable to visit New Hampshire. His farewell words were that he hoped to see Senator Lodge and Speaker Gillett at the Chicago convention.

"Both of these men are warm personal friends of mine," said the general, "and I recently had a very pleasant talk with the Speaker in Washington way. He said on March 21st that a terrible battle was raging on the Oise, the odds fearfully against the Allies.

The French would meet terrible losses, but glorious America was coming in and the victories would begin in about two weeks. But it was four instead. I sent these messages to four friends on March 22.

Souls are not omnipotent in the astral. Robert tells me he is taking lessons from great masters who came from higher planes. "Cosmic consciousness" was one course he took. He has also been shown great pictures (this is other, revealing our former incarnations together. He has described four and tells me he will have the fifth ready in London.

I have been to a wedding today—an American captain and a French girl. It was at the cathedral, and a mass and was very impressive. He was from Boston and was reared a Catholic, so it made everything easy. She also speaks English finely.

"Sallies" Will Open Drive in May

The Salvation Army's Home Service fund appeal for 1920 will be made throughout New England from May 10 to May 20. Announcement to this effect was made today by Colonel Adam Gifford, New England commander. Approximately only one million and one-quarter will be asked for throughout the entire six States, and the appeal in New England will be made simultaneously with the nation-wide appeal. Franklin K. Lane, recently Secretary of the Interior, will be national chairman. Colonel Gifford said and the chairmen for the New England States will be announced in the near future. Governor Coolidge is a member of the national campaign committee.

GIRL SHOT DEAD ON STREET

Three Wounded by Flying Bullets as Assassin Opens Fire on His Enemy

New York, March 8.—Lena Spinelli, thirteen years old, was killed and two other girls and a man were wounded when an unidentified man fired a fusillade of bullets at Giuseppe de Casera and Salvatore Guerierio from a hallway on Mulberry street.

Three girls, Lena Spinelli, Margaret Montana, nineteen, and Josephine Gentile, eighteen, had just emerged from a picture show and were crossing the street when the assassin spied his intended victim. He opened fire as the girls passed between him and the two men, one of whom was the gunman's quarry.

1,500 MORE TO JOIN STRIKE

Blacksmiths and Helpers at United Shoe Plant Are Planning to Walk Out

Beverly, March 8.—More than 1,500 blacksmiths, drop forgers and helpers at the United Shoe Machinery Company are expected to walk out on strike within forty-eight hours and join the 3,000 machinists who are demanding the abolishment of the contract system between the company and individual employes.

The blacksmiths and members of the allied trades are members of the Metal Trades Council. Tonight the executive committee of this body meets in Salem to draw up an ultimatum giving the company twenty-four hours to accede to the demands of the machinists.

Today the plant was being operated with about 50 per cent. of its capacity. Pickets are stationed on all streets about the big plant.

BLOCK U. S. LOAN TO GERMANY

Allied Council Determines to Give Credit to Forestall $400,000,000 Plan

By International News Service.

Berlin, March 8.—The newspaper Achtuhr Abendblatt states that the allies' proposal to help Germany economically was brought about by the revelation that negotiations for a $400,000,000 loan were pending between Germany and the United States, and that this credit was to be used by Germany to securing food and raw materials from America.

According to the Achtuhr Abendblatt, the United States is not to share in the loan which the allies have proposed for Germany, and, if possible, the United States will be still further excluded from European economic affairs. The newspaper said:

"From a well-informed neutral source it is learned that negotiations between Germany and the United States for $400,000,000 had almost reached the point of definite settlement when the report reached Premier Lloyd George of a member of the British military mission in Berlin. Premier Lloyd-George evidently held the opinion that this credit must be prevented.

"Therefore the allied council determined to give credit, the proposal being made by England. We learn further that the allied countries are determined to exclude the influence of American financiers from the European continent. The endeavor of American financiers to purchase German and Austrian industrial enterprises made a tremendous impression in French and British government circles."

Grip Laid You Up? Back Aching?

ARE you getting over a cold, grip or influenza only to find yourself a victim of backache? Are you suffering headaches, too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired, worn-out feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Medical authorities agee that a vast number of the worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills today! Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These Are Boston Cases:

Boston Street (S. Boston)

Chas. E. Whiting, Fireman, 231 Boston St., South Boston, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times when my kidneys have troubled me, and they have always given me good results. Whenever I caught cold, it was sure to go to my kidneys, and then I would have severe backaches and soreness over my kidneys. The action of my kidneys would be irregular, too. I have always used Doan's at these times, and they have been sure to strengthen my back and regulate my kidneys."

Paris Street (E. Boston)

Mrs. A. Lavery, 66 Paris St., East Boston, says: "I always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills when I hear anyone complain of kidney trouble. I know from experience that Doan's Kidney Pills are just as represented. I had backaches almost daily and felt dull and tired out. Frequent headaches and dizziness annoyed me and my kidneys acted irregularly. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills made my back well and strong and put my kidneys in good shape."

Appleton Street

Mrs. E. Gibbon, 59 Appleton St., says: "I know the value of Doan's Kidney Pills and gladly endorse them. I have used Doan's for years whenever my kidneys have troubled me and I have had dull backaches and soreness in my kidneys. At such times my kidneys haven't acted regularly, either. Doan's Kidney Pills have always relieved the backaches and all the other signs of kidney complaint."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—"Jas. Doan."

Tremont Street

Joseph McCarron, 344 Tremont St., says: "My kidneys were weakened by heavy lifting. I was so lame and stiff I could hardly keep at my work. My back ached dreadfully and whenever I stooped over I could hardly straighten up again. I was also caused distress by the too frequent action of my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were just what I needed, and it wasn't long before my back was strong and free from aches and pains. My kidneys again acted regularly."

West Brookline Street

Mrs. H. B. Clarke, 85 W. Brookline St., gave the following account of her experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, March 9, 1917: "Some years ago I was down with my back. It was lame and sore and I felt miserable. Often when I stooped a stitch took me in the small of my back and I could scarcely raise up. My kidneys annoyed me by the way they acted, too. As one of the family had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results, I used three boxes and soon felt perfectly well again."

On February 8, 1919, Mrs. Clarke said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills whenever my kidneys show the least sign of being out of order, and they are sure to correct the trouble."

BRAVES' LEADERS EXPECT FIRST DIVISION BERTH

By NICK FLATLEY.

Columbus, Ga., March 8.—Looks like the first division, according to Manager Stallings, Owner George Washington Grant, and Coach Oscar Dugey, who are the three directing the destinies of the 1920 Braves. The optimism that percolates through all camps after a few days workouts has arrived here full force, and now the bosses are beginning to imagine they may have a pretty good ball club.

Dugey sizes the situation up very aptly when he says: "The real thing that wins pennants is the right spirit. A team has to have players, but every team has enough provided the boys get in the proper frame of mind. If they think they can win they will. That was the case with the champion Braves a few years, and with the Yankees the next season."

"Give a good manager three pitchers, fair general material and a bunch that will fight for the breaks and he's all set to win a pennant. The difference between a champion and a tailender in a season's race is very, very slight, just the matter of a few one-run games that go to the team getting the breaks.

Ball Clubs Make Own Breaks

"Ball clubs make their own breaks. They force the luck and get what they shoot after. The fellows who choke up and get discouraged fade out of the picture. Stallings is getting that old spirit back in these Braves. He has a lot of smart young fellows and a few of them look like pretty good ball players.

"If they just get to thinking that they can win they will. That's all Stallings needs to give the league another surprise."

Which is a pretty accurate sizing up of the situation. The athletes are trying hard, which was more than could be said of the most of them last season. The war's over now and, as we remarked in the beginning, it looks like the first division from this angle of vantage.

Practice Games to Start Soon

The practice games will start Wednesday unless bad weather causes another vacation. It continues cold, so chilly that we can sympathize with the reports of blizzards coming from the north. There's no snow down here, but the temperature has depended down to freezing the last few evenings, and the overcoats of the north are quite a la mode, as they say in the reefer.

Stallings this week intends to put in a lot of time developing pitcher Cy Morgan. Cy has all the earmarks of a comer, and is a chap who learns quickly. He is pulling quite a little with Richard Rudolph, and getting plenty of the right kind of advice.

Morgan is a tall, slim chap, with plenty of wiry strength. He is a fast-ball pitcher, with a good curve and no freak deliveries. He has good control in the minors, and knows a whole lot about the finer points of touring.

Braves Angling for Two Hurlers

The Braves are bidding now for a couple of pitchers attached to one of the National clubs, and expect to do some trading within the next few days. One of the hurlers is a class A performer and the other has had just enough development to step in and have a good year for himself. The latter, by the way, was once attached to the Braves club.

The athletes spent a very quiet Sunday, motoring out to polo games at Camp Benning and making the hotel as per schedule for the three sumptuous meals.

Rabbit Maranville and your correspondent took Hennery Gowdy and Ed Cunningham out to the golf links, and naturally scored a thrilling victory. The Rabbit is an nifty with golf clubs as he is with a baseball bat and could play a whale of a game with little practice. Gowdy lacks experience, but knocks them a mile when he connects.

SHARKEY VS. FRIEDMAN HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Jack Sharkey will make his Boston debut in the contest against Lew Friedman at the Commonwealth A. C. next Saturday night. Ever since the former defeated Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight champion, in their contest in Milwaukee, on the arrival of the little Britisher on this side of the country, he has been in big demand the country over. Sharkey will meet a tough nut in Friedman, who has been coming along with leaps and bounds since Eddie Mack has taken over the management.

Besides the Sharkey-Friedman bout, Matchmaker Crowley has arranged a strong preliminary card. Membership reservations may be made at the club's headquarters, No. 27 School street, room 53.

BOSTON SQUASH PLAYERS WIN 4 MATCHES; LOSE 1

Boston's well-balanced squash racquets quintet sent Philadelphia's team back to the Quaker City defeated, four matches to one, in the intercity series at the Harvard Club. The Hub players finished on the long end of the first four matches and dropped the final.

OUTFIELD IS RED SOX PROBLEM

Menosky Only Gardener on Hand at Springs—Others Due Soon but—

Hot Springs, Ark., March 8.—Dear Gil—I'm going to let you in on a little inside stuff in regard to the Red Sox. Of course you know all about the Red Sox outfield problem. They have about as many good outfielders with the club as there are guys who will not admit they believed Kayo Muggsy was going to flatten Young Kirby.

Just now Menosky is the only outfielder at the training camp. Ed Barrow has been planning to get the former Senator a chariot so that he could cover the three pastures. But chariots are mighty hard things to get since the circus game started to go back.

Harry Hooper, Tim Hendryx and Armando Marsans are due here eventually, but in the meantime I figured it was up to us war correspondents to solve this outfield wrangle and at the same time get something to write about. I don't mind telling you, Gil, that I don't think either Hendryx or Marsans will duplicate the performances of Babe Ruth and so I got an idea that there might be a chance for a regular ball player to grab some kind of a job in left field for the Sox.

Kid Was Jealous of Red Sweaters

Ed Barrow gave his squad a day off Sunday, but "Stuffy" McInnis and Mel Webb were apparently also thinking of outfielders and such things for they decided to don baseball togs and accompany me out to the ball park at noon.

Not being one of those $15,000 a year ball players, I don't carry around baseball uniform, spiked shoes and other decorations. So I conducted a raid on Larry Gardner's room. You see, Larry gets athletic each Spring and plays ball with his boys' athletic club. You have to hand it to Larry for being a thoughtful individual for as he was getting his outfit his shoes made he had them fixed up so that they would also fit me. It will probably be a good idea for me to cancel my order for a Tuxedo as Larry has a couple of swell ball room outfits.

At any rate we hiked ourselves out to the baseball park and made the rounds. I forgot all about Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner and other great athletes they have assembled here. There was a youngster who said that "my friend Xel and myself" reminded him a lot of Ruth because we were so different. I guess he was a little jealous of our bright red sweaters.

Duffy's Cliff Will Stop Drives

I think I'll try for the left field job with the Sox as Duffy's Cliff stops the long wallops. It would be too tiresome chasing Ruth's clouts out in centre field. Webb can have that job if he wants it. He knows Harry Hooper very well and may be he can make some deal with the Red Sox captain by which the latter will give pursuit to the circuit wallops.

In the afternoon we strolled around the town, while Larry Gravy and Mike McNally went out horseback riding. Mike is a hero around here today, as he saved the life of Miss "Teddy" Abrams, one of the fairest of the fair in this town. She was out horseback riding, when her mount started to run wild over brooks and open country. McNally gave chase, and came abreast of the horse on which the girl was riding after covering a mile over rough country. He then brought the runaway under control. If Mike can but this year like he can ride a horse, it looks as though Barrow wouldn't have to worry about his second-base problem. Yours for five-cent fares,

JACK CONWAY.

P. S.—If you know of a good catcher that wants a job, Gil, tell him to grab a rattler for Hot Springs, as there are no signs of Wally Schang reporting. You know, I can't play left field and catch, too. Maybe Muggsy would make a good receiver on the ball park now that he has qualified in this respect in the ring.

NEW GOLF IDEAS BADLY NEEDED

Too Little Thought Is Given Nature of Tournaments When Dates Are Set

By WALTER C. HAGEN

Have golf tournament committees gone stale? Seldom do we hear of new ideas in golf tournaments or new ways of playing old tournaments or one-day events which are the life of every country club and the backbone of golf.

When a tournament schedule is being arranged for the coming season the committee go over last year's program and fill in the dates without any thought of injecting a new idea. The tournament sched is must be arranged somehow, but the only difference from last year's events is that the championships will be played at a different date, and the president's cup will be played for at match play instead of medal, and the president's cup will be changed about so that it will be a ball sweepstake this week and a four-some hugey this week, and on another occasion it will be foursome play, etc. One club schedule looks exactly like another with hardly any variety except the change of dates.

Not long ago I saw a club event played that attracted attention and later on became a fixture on the program. One word I suppose. Before it did become a fixture. It would have been one word, but the committee reserved it for every other year or something like that.

Kept Play Going Over Course

I refer to a one-day play. It was a medal round in which every contestant played the full eighteen holes, but two of the holes were drawn out of a hat and did not count in the general score. No one knew what two holes were eliminated, so a player who had messed up his score here and there might find that the very two holes where he was over par were not to be counted. This kept every one playing to the end. It has been played so that only the holes cut of the eighteen would count. When this is done four holes are picked from one nine and five from the other.

The obstacle tournament is always interesting and never fails to produce a lot of fun. Holes are barricaded with everything imaginable. Luck figures a great deal in such a tournament, but there is still room for the good golfer to get in his deadly mashie work.

Then there is the good old flag or tombstone contest, which is always enjoyed by the players. When the program is complete and followed by a dinner in the evening it is, well worth while. Each player writes his own epitaph and a prize is offered for the best one.

There is the elimination match, too, in which a hundred players can start, if necessary, from the first tee and the high ones drop out. It is quite necessary in this event to have your ball well marked.

YALE FOOTBALL MEN ASSIGNED IN 3 SQUADS

New Haven, March 8.—Captain Tim Callahan of the 1919 eleven and Trainer John Mack, both Greater Boston residents, who are directing the first Winter practice held here in nearly a decade, have divided the squad of eighty candidates into three sections to allow plenty of individual attention to the entire squad. Each has been allotted a different time for reporting and for the present an hour an afternoon will be devoted to rudimentary indoor drill, such as putting the ball in play and general handling of it, together with general conditioning exercises. The candidates largely include the centres, quarterbacks and ends.

Practically the entire freshman eleven of last year has been included in one or another of the three squads.

Baseball Games Wanted

The Cardinal club of Roxbury would like to fill its baseball schedule before May 1, and is therefore desirous of hearing from teams that have already organized for the season. Would be glad to hear from out-of-town teams for the holiday dates and Sundays. The team plays in the 15-16-year-old class, and will be glad to take on all comers in the class. Interested managers write to Manager J. T. Smith, No. 45 Burrell street, Roxbury, 18, or phone Roxbury 4653-M between 4 30 and 7 30 any night.

TAD'S TIDBITS

RICKARD APPEARS STRONG YET

The week before the big fight at Toledo last July Tex Rickard was a worried man. He was worried about accidents. He was worried about the weather, and he was worried over reports about being held up.

Tex had heard it whispered that Jack Kearns was to demand $15,000 more than he had agreed to box for in his contract. The wise guys who had arrived that week were sure that Jack Kearns would hop the bid. They heard it in New York. They knew. The boys in the know were tipped off.

A few days before the fight Rickard went to Dempsey's camp and satisfied himself that things were all right. Kearns said that no such thought had ever entered his head. That was enough for Tex.

Then the day of the little quarters. Tex heard a voice calling him. It was Dempsey. Tex stopped and waited for Jack to come over. Blushing like a schoolgirl and fiddling with his sweater, Dempsey said: "Mr Rickard, I haven't had a chance to thank you for what you've done for me. You've given me a chance to box for the championship and I want you to know how thankful I feel. If I win the championship I want to be able to do something big for you some day."

That little talk threw a lot of cheer into the system of T. Rickard, and he's not sure right now whether Tex has Jack's moniker to a contract or not.

If an American promoter gets the fight it looks as though either Rickard or Coffroth will grab it, as both are very close to the champion and Manager Kearns.

What's become of the old-fashioned guy who used to kick at the size of the COLLAR on his scuttle of suds?

Joe Humphreys told us one the other day about Mickey McDonough. It seems that Mickey's manager got him a bout in Albany. He took the train with Mickey and split the stateroom. In the morning both rose at the same time and started dolling up for the eats. The manager was combing his beautiful locks when he happened to turn around and spotted Mickey using his toothbrush.

Mickey, with a surprised look, dropped the scrubber and piped, "Well, where's the one that belongs to the boat?"

THREE CITIES BID FOR NATIONAL REGATTA

Three cities—Philadelphia, Buffalo and Worcester—have applied for the National rowing regatta of 1920, according to a statement made by Fred R. Fortmeyer, ex-secretary of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. Worcester held the event last year, but it is nothing unusual for a city to bid twice in succession as the event was formerly conducted three consecutive years over the course. The more recent practice has been to pass the championship around annually, and for that reason the chances of Philadelphia and Buffalo are regarded as more favorable than those of Worcester.

SNYDER MAKES BOW TONIGHT

Roxbury Battler to Take on Tommy Murray in Main Bout at Suffolk A. A.

Barney Snyder of Roxbury makes his home bow and in his home district, tonight, after a trip to Australia. His opponent is Battling Tommy Murray of Philadelphia, one of the best bantamweights in the Quaker City. Snyder is in excellent condition for the bout, and he is anxious to score a win.

Interest is being shown, too, in the bout between Cyclone Ketchel and George Alger, which is booked to go over the twelve-round route.

The usual number of preliminaries will be staged, Frankie Murray of Everett will meet Young Falvey of New Bedford, and Jack O'Leary of Cambridge will take on Young Solberg of New Bedford.

PFEFFER WOULD SIGN; EBBETS WON'T LET HIM

Jacksonville, Fla., March 8.—When Big Ed Pfeffer offered to sign at the terms offered by the Brooklyn club he was turned down by President Ebbets, the latter claiming the pitcher might not give his best efforts during the season under those conditions Pfeffer says he is willing to figure in a trade to the Cardinals or any other club if they meet his salary demands. It is a merry go-round with the trade of Pfeffer for McHenry and May, or Heathcote and Schupp, appearing as a standstill.

ALL STAR-PITTSBURGH GAMES NOT OLYMPIC TESTS

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Now that the hockey promoters concerned have gained thousands of dollars by the staging of the so-called Olympic elimination series between the Pittsburgh A. A. and the Boston All Stars, comes an announcement that neither the winner nor loser of that series will represent the United States in the Olympic hockey matches, but that one team—possibly two teams—will be selected from the eligible members of Boston, Pittsburgh and St. Paul clubs, and forthwith will engage in a series of games in this country to defray their expenses abroad.

Just why the Pittsburgh-Boston series was announced as an Olympic elimination proposition has puzzled hockey fans for some time. The announcement was an official one from persons high in the affairs of amateur athletics. The fact that special dispensation was given to Boston players to engage in games other than with the club teams on which they were registered, further indicates the official sanction.

The alleged Olympic phase of the series produced an ideal "come-on" for the crowds and brought oodles of coin to the promoters, yet throughout the series it was known that a majority of the Pittsburgh men were citizens of Canada and consequently not qualified to represent the United States, and it was further known that while the Pittsburgh A. A. might benefit through the profits received in the series, none of the clubs represented on the Boston team would be financial gainers, as the affairs of the local team were handled by a specially appointed manager.

Boston Players Refused to Make Trip

Many of the men selected for the local team sickened of the proposition as the series progressed and, on one or another excuse five of these players declined to make the trip to Pittsburgh for the final two games, and at least two of the remaining three made the trip under protest, the result being that anything but an All-Star team represented this city in the last games of the series.

Hockey fans generally have had much unfavorable comment to make on the series, and since the more recent developments they have become quite bitter over the fashion amateur hockey is now being handled. And in the conduct of this highly profitable series, another but-Olympic-elimination hockey series they appear to possess a weapon that will keep the Boston Arena already administered to amateur hockey, in a continual blue-black condition, at least until some thoroughly plausible explanation is made for the Olympic elimination hock.

Two Games This Week at Ice Pavilion

BATTLE MEANS LOT TO SIEGAL

Bout With Kloby Will Be Revere Battler's Reward if He Beats Shevlin

Eddie Shevlin of Roxbury and Nate Siegal of Revere are scheduled to battle twelve rounds to a decision in the main bout at the Triple A. in the Grand Opera House tomorrow night. It will be the first meeting between the pair.

The result means a whole lot to both boys, but especially for Siegal, who is after a bout with Young Kloby of Lawrence. If the Revere boxer wins he is likely to be given a chance with the K. D. miller, but defeat will put him out of the running altogether.

The semi-final will bring together Young Gould of Brockton and Maxey Green. There will be two six round preliminaries.

At short Sammy Baker will have his hands full trying to beat out Tubber White, who will be on deck for the second year. Bill Tubber injured his ankle on the gridiron, and for a time it was thought that he would be unable to play any more, but careful nursing brought his leg around and Volk will have another team to fall back upon.

FROM STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, TO BOSTON, MASS.

On Friday I told of an immense purchase of goods from the Alden Woolen Co., that had been shipped to Sweden through the agency of Cohen Bros. Manufacturing Co., Inc., who were bankers for a Stockholm purchaser. These goods are now in my stock, all responged, remeasured and examined, and I find a beautiful line of grays, fancy worsteds, and I especially call my customers' attention to the fact that there are twenty pieces of William Whitman and Gero serges. These goods weigh from 11 to 14 oz. and I am making a special offer on same for the next three weeks, or until this quantity is used up.

Three-Piece Suit to Order $22.50

I will have a big story showing telegram and original ticket taken from this stock in Wednesday's paper.

Standish Worsteds, 35 years in the woolen business, in which the words "Standish Worsteds" meant the finest manufactured, allow me to get extravagant in my praise of the three styles of absolutely all worsted, 14 ounces in weight fabrics, that I am offering today. The present market makes Standish Dublin Twisted, all worsted goods synonymous with the price of $80 for a suit of clothes.

I also have a wonderful range of Blue Serge, Fancy Worsteds and fine Cheviot Suitings, some absolutely all wool, some contain a percentage of cotton. My price for three-piece suit to order,

ASK of the world's trained man where to find what lies nearest your heart and you will win an answer. The scientist will tell you how to unlock the magic of nature, the miner where to unearth gold and silver, the astronomer just when a certain comet will pass across our little stretch of heavens, but which of them can tell you where to look for genius?

Certainly the most learned student of the human face would never have picked Leon Kantor as a musical prodigy if he had happened to see him on his seventh birthday on the smelly, crowded sidewalks of Allen street.

And yet Leon was distinctly better dressed than his companions, owing to the very birthday. He wore a cheap suit of cotton with a soft round hat, and his face and hands were spotless as he emerged from the portal of his father's brass shop to flesh his grandeur on the neighborhood.

Leon Stalks On

Abrahm Kantor paid no attention to him; he was too busy converting newly bought candlesticks and jars into antiques. The Russian exile regarded this work with the eye of an artist. It was worth while to buy a factory product for a dollar and with the aid of a blow pipe and little acid, to remove its freshness, to impart to it a air of ancient respectability and sell it at 500 per cent. profit.

Abrahm's little subterfuge, in the language of the day, was only a means to give the public what it wanted. And besides the worker had a family and rearing up a family in New York was vastly more expensive than bringing one up in Kiev.

Kantor labored on while Leon with both hands in his pockets stalked forth enjoying the comments on his new suit and wondering how long it would be before some jealous acquaintance translated envy into words.

On the corner of the next street a group of boys of his own age was playing craps undisturbed; further along a little girl with wide appealing eyes and one thin leg supported by a brace, was leaning against the side of a tenement gazing with something of awe into a garbage can. Rather fearfully she bent over and drew out a cat, undersized, underfed and too weak to resist even her small fingers. Around her shoulders was an apology for a shawl such as the small girls of the ghetto often wear, and the child with a swift motion huddled the famished kitten close to her breast with a maternal motion of tenderness, pathetic and unconscious.

A New Angle

She stood there rocking back and forth while the boys shouted at their game, and bundle-laden men and women crowded in front of the push cart that inhabited the curb.

Curiosity is one of the perquisites of childhood; Leon Kantor, hands still in his pockets, watched the game until it ceased to amuse him and then his glance wandered to the figure swaying back and forth and hugging something under the bit of shawl.

He walked over and grinned and the little girl answered back

"Whatcher got?"

"Gee, a kitten—I know a feller that's got a dog."

She covered the kitten and gazed at him without making any remark. Her silence seemed disconcerting; he fidgeted and then with abruptness enlisted her attention

"I can wiggle my ears, can you?"

She tried and failed, whereupon he gave a specimen of his ability Her lips relaxed into a smile. The unusual is always appreciated, and here was a boy with unique gifts. Her smile encouraged him to other facial contortions, and he was engaged in thus showing off when the crap game came to an abrupt ending and he found himself the centre of a gaping group.

The girl hugged the kitten with the hope that her possession would pass unobserved. Vain delusion. Her very anxiety was her undoing.

"Whatcha got hid?" one of the larger boys challenged her

"Nothin'." She shifted from one foot to another

"Sure you have, I seen it wriggle—betcher it's a pup."

"Tain't a pup, it's a kitten, and it's mine."

Half a dozen hands stretched forth to seize the prize, and the girl, with a despairing look at Leon, tightened the shawl, prepared to fight to the last.

Might makes right is one of the laws of child life in the slums as elsewhere, and Leon Kantor forgetting his new suit and seeing only the smile and the look in the eyes of the little girl became her knight errant. His fists flew out and other fists mixed in the fray. In a medley of ragged coats and tousled heads he was carried to the dirty street while the girl hobbled away. When he got up he little resembled the apotheosis young man who had heard a mother's call and, like the great Lord Nelson, sailed right on

He Comes to Grief

Dirt was on his face and his suit looked as though it had been dyed a dark brown—his hat was missing—and he was sore all over. And yet he exulted that he had saved the kitten for the girl with the big eyes.

He picked up his hat from the gutter and put it on just as a rough hand seized his arm and his father's voice rang unpleasantly in his ears

"So this is the birthday you make for me."

There was nothing to say—nothing to do except to submit in disgrace to the brass shop and thence to the flat above

Mrs. Kantor was horrified, but she was lenient even though her son had no explanations. She applied water and a towel and gradually turned her son into a white boy again.

Abrahm stood waiting—"It's his birthday, Papa," said the mother, "you should take him out and buy him a present."

He took half of it and started to give back the rest. Mrs. Kantor persisted. "He's seven today, Papa—seven, he should have a good present."

There was nothing in the figure seven to appeal to Abrahm; he argued loudly, finally gave in and started off—his wife called him back—"You have forgotten something, Papa."

She stood there smiling—a big woman with love and patience written on her large features. The brass dealer walked back, put his arms about her and kissed her.

HERMIONE

HERMIONE, that euphonious and poetic name which has recently received new vogue as a feminine title, had its origin in the Greek. It comes from "Hermes," that swift and eloquent messenger of Zeus and favorite of all the gods throughout Greece. "Hermes," in turn, is popularly supposed to have its derivation in the Greek word meaning "earth," and hence the significance of Hermione, which is "refuge," can be delicately traced.

A long catalogue of famous Greeks bore names derived from Hermes. The first of its feminine interpretations found in the English language was Hermia, Shakespeare's Athenian maiden.

Hermione, in ancient legend, was the wife of Cadmus, founder of Thebes, and shared in his transformation into a serpent. Another Hermione was the daughter of Helen and Menelaus, and at first the wife of Neoptolemus, though afterward married to Orestes, and heroine of a tragedy of Euripides, where she was the jealous persecutor of the enslaved Andromache. Shakespeare calls the heroine of his "Winter's Tale" Hermione, and the name appears again as the mysterious ancestress of Anne of Geierstein, in whom Sir Walter Scott reproduced the legend of the demon mother of the fierce Angevin kings; Hermione is also immortalized in "The Fortunes of Nigel."

The Italian name Erminia is believed to have been derived from Hermione, and certainly the French Hermine has the same origin. The Welsh have a form of Hermione which they spell Erm-in. It is from this latter that the English name Emma is derived.

Those who read with appreciation one of the leading present-day humorists will straightway connect Hermione with the "if you get what I mean" phrase that has swept the country in the past few years. This humorous gentleman no doubt chose the name Hermione for his dilletante heroine as a satire upon the high order of mentality which has always been assigned to the Hermiones of history. Even the poet's tribute to Hermione exalts her intellect rather than her beauty:

"I have a wife and she is wise,
Deep in philosophy, strong in Greek;
Spectacles shadow her pretty eyes,
Coteries rustle to hear her speak;
She writes a little—for love, not fame;
Has published a book with a dreary name;
And yet (God bless her) is mild and meek."

Iolite is Hermione's jewel, signifying strength of character. Worn by the bearer of the name, it insures clarity of vision and good judgment. Thursday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

"EVVY, you're as old pal of mine—going to be my sister soon. If I asked you to stand by me, would you do it?"

Evvy's eyes forgot to widen as she leaned across the table and spoke huskily:

"I'd do—a lot for you—brother Jim."

There was a laugh and a lure and a challenge in the words, but instead of the jealousy such proceedings on the part of women had always made me feel I had a detached curiosity as to how Jim meant to handle this situation. When I saw him struggling to control his temper I realised he had a purpose to accomplish.

"Then forget this — gossip about Cosby. He's my friend, Evvy. I owe him a lot and if ever I fail in gratitude I'm a scrub. This story may be right. It may be wrong But until you get the actual straight of it won't you forget it? Cosby's an honest old brown bear. I'll bank on that. Why send him back to the particular inferno out of which he may just be struggling?"

Evvy Asks Question

"YOU want me to keep this to myself?" asked Evvy, ignoring Neal and me.

"Like the thoroughbred you know how to be," replied Jim gravely

"Give up the tea," suggested Jim.

"I couldn't!" Evvy's eyes were wistful. "You haven't the heart to ask that of me, Jim. You know—you know how much her engagement means to a girl—like me."

"And can you guess how much a snub from a girl like you might mean to Lane Cosby?" demanded Jim

"Not to mention his pretty wife!" purred Evvy

"I'm thinking of the man," Jim smiled. "But surely you'll consider the woman—and not push her down—down. Evvy, you're Miss Mason. Can't you afford to help a woman who may have a darn hard row to hoe and not deserve it?"

"You've no right to put me in such a position. I don't know what I'll do. I'll see," said Evvy evasively.

Then Neal entered the arena, quietly, unobtrusively:

"I'll answer for Evvy, Jim. She'll stand by these people because they're friends of yours and that counts far more than a gossipy letter from a few thousand miles away."

"Listen to the child!" cried Evvy, drawing her chair nearer to Neal's.

"Do I dare disobey my lord and master when he speaks so firmly?"

This sounded as if she were agreeing to do as Jim and Neal wished, but I felt sure that Evvy had something up her sleeve of which none of us were to know until such time as she was ready to reveal it. As to my sympathies, they seemed to go out toward Valerie Cosby with her tawdry story dragged into the light far more than to Evvy ruthlessly stripping Vail of privacy and decency—and all out of malice.

"The music's gone, shall we go too?" I asked, only too anxious now to end the party and get home to talk it over with Jim.

But presently Evvy was wrapped in her rose-colored cloak again and was tripping over the wet sidewalk to the taxi in her thin slippers. We took her home first, and there Neal asked up to wait for him.

"Aren't you coming in—a minute?" protested Evvy.

"It's pouring so, and I might not be able to get another taxi," explained Neal. "Do you mind waiting, Jim?"

Evvy gave a short laugh, leaned over to kiss me and thank me for a marvelous evening, and then Jim and Neal helped her out to the sedden pavement and Neal ran across the walk and up the steps with her. After only a minute he came back.

A Wonder and a Doubt

In this moment I had found time to cuddle my hand contentedly in Jim's. I wondered if it had been a moment of tenderness for Neal and Evvy. Wondered—and doubted.

A Woman's Verdict

Her Letter Well Worth Reading

Mrs. Nellie MacHan, 609 East 18th street, New York City, writes:

"For the last year I had suffered greatly from Kidney and Bladder trouble, distressing pain in the back and hips, with rheumatic twinges and frequent severe headache, accompanied by nervousness, chills, and fever; also a frequent desire to eliminate, scanting, burning sensation with pain in the region of the bladder. I would frequently have to arise at night, my sleep being disturbed by the pressure and inflammation in bladder. Beginning the use of Balmwort Tablets I noticed almost instant relief, and continuing to use them I am now totally well and relieved of all pain and distress from which I suffered. I am glad to recommend Balmwort Tablets as a reliable, beneficial medicine and trust others may find relief and freedom from pain and distress as I did, etc."

The above letter is a true statement, and is on file in our offices. Balmwort Tablets bring relief when other medicine has failed. Sold by leading druggists, $1.00 per tube. —Advertisement.

A RAW, SORE THROAT

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole.

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use.

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

How to Keep Baby Smiling and Well

See that the daily functions are regular and normal

YOU can't expect the little ones to be happy and playful when the head feels dull and the stomach bloated. The normal habit of children is to be happy and when you notice them cross and fretful you will usually find constipation is responsible.

Perhaps they have missed that daily function so necessary to comfort and health. Look at the tongue and breath. If the breath is bad. Watch for belching. These are the tell-tale symptoms of constipation. Don't wait, but give a little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can buy at any drug store, and it will work in a gentle way and the troublesome symptoms promptly disappear.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. Unlike the harsher physics it acts gently and without griping so that while grownups can use it freely it can also be given to a tiny baby with perfect safety. Thousands of American families would not think of being without a bottle in the house for the emergency arises almost daily when it is needed.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By MARIE CORELLI,

What Has Gone Before

Diana May, daughter of well-to-do commonplace parents, had had her love affair when the story opens with an officer with "expectations." After waiting seven years, the "expectations" were realized and the loved one promptly threw her over for a fairer and younger partner. Diana had spent her life in wondering. She had read books on psychology, natural and physical laws and on evolution and the selection of the species, but she was unable to determine why she came in or how she was to get out. The May family retires to Rose Lea, an estate on the coast of Devon, where Diana delights to ramble through the gardens.

SHE had made certain variations in the slow music of her days by study—yes, that was true—but then no one made use of her studies no one knew the extent of her attainments, and even in her music she had no encouragement—no one ever asked her to play. All her efforts seemed so much wasted output of energy. She had certain private joys of her own—a great love of Nature, which like an open door in Heaven allowed her to enter familiarly into some of the marvels and benedictions of creative intelligence; she loved books, and could read them in French and Italian, as well as in her native English; and she had taken to the study of Russian with some success.

Greek and Latin she had learned sufficiently well to understand the great authors of the older world in their own script—but all these intellectual diversions were organised and followed on her own initiative, and as she sometimes said to herself a trifle bitterly:

"Nobody knows I can do anything but check the tradesmen's books and order the dinner."

This was a fact—nobody knew. Ordinary people considered her unattractive; what they saw was a scrawny woman of medium height with a worn face visibly beginning to wither under a profusion of brown hair—a woman who "had been" pretty when younger, but who now had a rather restrained and nervous manner, and who was seldom inclined to speak—yet, who, when spoken to, answered always gently, in a voice low and with a wonderfully musical accentuation.

Something of a Scholar

No one thought for a moment that she might possibly be something of a scholar—and certainly no one knew that above all things she was a great student of all matters pertaining to science. Every book she could hear of on scientific subjects, whether treating of wireless telegraphy, light rays, radium, or other marvellous discoveries of the age, she made it her special business to secure and to study patiently and comprehendingly, the result being that her mind was richly stored with material for thought on far higher planes than the vapidity of reading folk ever attempt to reach.

But she never spoke of the things in which she was deeply interested, and as she was reserved and almost awkwardly shy in company, the occasional callers on her mother scarcely noticed her, except casually and with a careless civility which meant nothing. She was seen to knit and to do Jacobean tapestry rather well, and people spoke to her of these accomplishments as being what they thought she was most likely to understand—but they looked askance at her dress, which was always a little tasteless and unbecoming, and opined that "poor dear Mrs. May must be dreadfully disappointed in her daughter!"

Dreadfully Disappointed

It never occurred to these easy-tongued folk that Diana was dreadfully disappointed in herself. This was the trouble of it. She asked the question daily and could find no answer. And yet—she was useful to her parents surely? Yes—but in her own heart she knew they would have been just as satisfied with a paid "companion housekeeper." They did not really "love" her, now that she had turned out such a failure.

Alas, poor Diana! Her hunger for "love" was her misfortune; it was the one thing of all the world she craved It had been this desire of love that had charmed her impulsive soul when in the heyday of her youth and prettiness she had engaged herself to the man for whom she had waited seven years, only to be heartlessly thrown over at last. She had returned all his letters in exchange for her own at the end of the affair—all, save two, —and these two she read every night before she said her prayers to keep them well fixed in her memory. One of them contained the following passage.

"How I love you, my own sweet little Diana! You are to me the most adorable girl in the world—and if ever I do an unkind thing to you or wrong you in any way may God punish me for a treacherous brute! My one desire in life is to make you happy."

The other letter, written some years later, was rather differently expressed.

"I am quite sure you will understand that time has naturally worked changes, in you as well as in myself, and I am obliged to confess that the feelings I once had for you no longer exist. But you are a sensible woman, and you are old enough now to realise that we are better apart."

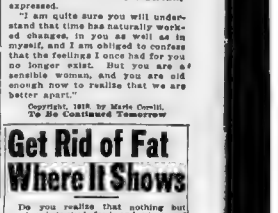
Get Rid of Fat Where It Shows

Do you realize that nothing but good substantial food and plenty of it will build muscular energy and that you must eat and eat heartily in order to retain your strength?



Dieting weakens you and over-exercise tires you because the former retains the development of muscular energy and the latter consumes too much of it. That is why you find the old-fashioned method of fat reduction such a hardship. Why not get rid of those fat pads in the harmless, scientific, easy way by taking a Marmola Prescription Tablet after each meal and at bed time? Marmola Prescription Tablets are prepared in exact accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, are perfectly safe to use and have been used by hundreds of persons in this country and Europe with wonderful success. Within a short time you can be getting rid of two, three or four pounds of fat a week, no starvation diet or tiresome exercises are needed. You can be comfortable and you can enjoy the food you like and want. Even after taking off many pounds there will be no flabbiness or wrinkles remaining, and you will feel 100% better. Any good druggist can supply Marmola Prescription Tablets at $1 per case or they will be mailed direct in plain wrapper and post paid if you send the price to The Marmola Company, 884 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. —Advertisement

Stomach Out Of Order? Try NR

Nothing Better to Straighten You Out After Eating Too Much. Tones Liver, Regulates Bowels. Sale Pleasantly. Guaranteed.

Many people eat too much every day and meet eat much too much some days. That is why Americans suffer more than any people in the world from indigestion, biliousness and constipation.

With a little thoughtfulness and care, even a great amount of this distress could be avoided and you'll never realize how true this is until you become one of the several million people of this country who keep a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) constantly on hand and use it whenever indigestion, biliousness or constipation threatens.

Unlike laxative purges, cathartics such as oil, calomel, etc., which merely force bowel action, Nature's Remedy exerts a beneficial influence upon the entire digestive and eliminative system—the stomach, liver, bowels and even the kidneys. Its purpose is to promote vigorous and harmonious action of all the organs that handle the food and body waste.

That is why the results which follow the use of Nature's Remedy are always a delightful surprise to those who first try it. The action while prompt and thorough, is as mild and gentle and pleasant as Nature herself, and the thorough cleansing the body receives brings a feeling of real relief and benefit such as no laxative pill or cathartic ever produced for anyone.

Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and try it. There is no risk in doing so, for it must give you greater relief and benefit than any liver or bowel medicine you ever used or money back instantly. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Stocks Irregular in New York at Noon; Call Money Renews at 8%; Sterling Exchange Down

STEEL ISSUES ARE WEAK

Motors, Equipments and Rubbers Rule Strong, While Oils Show Losses

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, with the majority of active issues showing losses. Oils and steels were weak, while motors, equipments and rubbers displayed strength. The market was quiet during the morning, first hour transactions totalling 200,000 shares. It was dull in the second.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent. The preliminary quotation for demand sterling was $3.55, off 6¼ cents. General Motors made the largest gain and was the forenoon feature. At its highest it was up more than sixteen points.

PRICES LOWER AT OPENING.

At the opening prices were lower, initial declines ranging from fractions to about three points. A few stocks were strong at the start, including General Motors. Auto issues, in fact, were the strongest group, but tires were irregular. Afterwards they strengthened, the market as a whole showing improvement within a few minutes. No buying of consequence by the public was incidental to over Saturday business. Most of the regular trading crowd operated on the bear side. The Saturday statement by New York Clearing House banks was a disappointment, showing a decrease of $32,493,600 in surplus reserve. There was nearly $48,000,000 increase in loans and but small gains in deposits. The weekly report by the New York Federal Bank was more satisfactory, its ratio of reserves to liabilities being 35.1 per cent, as compared with 37.6 per cent. last week. The deposit ratio was 36 per cent., against 35.3 per cent. for the preceding week.

GOLD RESERVE DECREASED.

Shipments of gold to South America decreased the gold reserve by $16,000,000. This reserve now stands at $400,633,176. Nothing more was said about European shipments of yellow metal to this country, but rumors were heard that $10,000,000 more gold would be forwarded to Argentina this week. The preliminary estimation for demand sterling was about five cents below the week-end final figure. Generally speaking, little issue was entertained of betterment in the money market until Federal tax payments are over.

At the end of an hour the market was irregular and quiet. Steels and oils were weak in early trading, but the secondary movement took them upward. Business in rails was light and they ruled lower. Copper got no attention. What strength developed was individual issues.

INCREASED PROFITS FOR U. S. WORSTED CO.

A large increase in profits was achieved by the management of the U. S. Worsted Co. last year. For 1919 its net, after all charges and taxes, amounted to $2,073,552, which is equivalent to 20.6 per cent. on the outstanding first preferred stock and compares with $1,236,187, or 17.6 per cent., for 1918. In making his seventh annual report to stockholders, President Andrew Adie stated that net sales for the year amounted to $22,833,444, plants are in first class condition, the company is in a strong financial position and the outlook for 1920 is most promising. He said:

"During the year 1919 $1 dividends on the first preferred stock have been paid and $650,000 was allotted for the retirement of sinking fund income certificates, on which there was a saving to the company of $97,315, which amount was added to surplus. Your directors have authorized the retirement of $120,000 sinking fund income certificates on March 4, 1920, and have voted a quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the second preferred stock, due and payable March 15, 1920."

RADICAL REDUCTION IN CALFSKIN PRICES

There has been a radical reduction in prices for calfskins since last year. Current prices are about 50 less in New York than the highest of 1919. In Chicago they are bringing about half of the highest last year figure. The following table shows New York prices since 1913:

	8 to 7 lbs	7 to 5 lbs	5 to 12 lbs
1913	$1.50	$2.30	$2.65
1914	1.80	2.40	2.80
1915	2.15	3.00	3.10
1916	5.00	5.50	6.00
1917	6.00	7.00	8.00
1918	4.00	5.00	6.00
High 1919	10.00	11.50	12.00
Now	6.00	7.00	8.00

The advance was due to scarcity of of calfskins. In 1912 and 1913 imports approximated 200,000,000 pounds, while in 1917 and 1918 they totalled but 37,000,000 pounds. There was an improvement in 1919, when imports amounted to 64,500,000 pounds.

Wool Shipments

Wool shipments from Boston from January 1 to March 4, inclusive, totalled 23,864,800 pounds, against 17,221,749 for the like 1919 period. Receipts were 47,843,676 pounds, as compared with 26,663,612 pounds. These statistics are Commercial Bulletin compilations.

Republic Oil Developments

The latest information regarding developments near properties of the Republican Oil & Refining Co. of Dallas, Tex., comes in the form of telegrams from W. F. Thurmond of Jones & Thurmond who is inspecting them.

He reports of new acreage bought in the Kemp-Munger-Allen field and of a 3000-barrel a day well just bought in within 150 feet of the Republican Company's line. He wires, "Thin lease looks good for big production." The Republican Company has bought eight more acres in the field, which makes their holdings total thirty-four and one-half acres.

Leaders Recede After Irregular Exchange Opening; Curb Market Active

Prices were irregular at a quiet opening on the Boston Stock Exchange and fluctuations were small as a rule. Sentiment had not altered over Sunday, and was bearish in the main. The trend was downward during the morning and before noon the market had a weak tone. Orpheum was an active stock early in the session. All the coppers were quiet. Davis-Daly was no exception. The report that the deposit of high-grade ore found last summer in its 2,200-foot level had widened and was averaging 7 per cent. copper created no demand for this issue. Other property's copper output last month approximated 1,100,000 pounds and increased production is looked for shortly. In the red metal market the price tendency is downward at present.

Swift & Co. advanced a point and a half during the morning and issued to sell higher by fractions: included East Butte, National Leather, Elder, Orpheum, Gray & Davis, North Butte and American Telephone.

Among issues to recede a point or more were United Fruit and Boston & Maine. Smaller declines were recorded against Isle Royale, Mayflower-Old Colony, Mohawk, Old Dominion, United Shoe, Carson Hill, Swift International and New Cornelia.

CURB MARKET ACTIVE.

The Curb market, after being dull last week, had an active opening. But trades changed ruled small. Oils ruled lower, all the high-priced ones showing early losses. The market was weak rather than strong. The most active stocks during the first hour were low priced silvers.

Gains by mid-morning included Mutual Trust, 5-16 at 1 11-16; Seven Metals, 1 cent at 25 cents, and Arizona Extension, 1 cent at 13 cents. Among declines were: Gilliland, 1¼ at 42¾; Simms Petroleum, ¼ at 24½; White Oil, ¼ at 29¾; Texans, 5 cents at 20 cents; Imperial, 3 cents at 26 cents; Crystal new, 2 cents at 32 cents; Universal Silver, 2 at 15 cents, and Arizona Tip Top, 1 cent at 13 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Treasury production by the East Butte smelter was 1,160,380 pounds of copper and 36,834 ounces of silver in January to copper and 36,834 ounces of silver in January to compare with 1,738,840 pounds.

Phillips Petroleum has entered their Boston offices from No. 53 State street to 131 State street.

First National Bank stock is being quoted in the "outside market" at from $200 to $800, while "rights" attached to new shares are being valued at $25 to $50.

Shattuck Arizona reports copper production last month of 1,000,000 pounds, while its output of other metals was 597,043 pounds of lead, 7,062 ounces of silver and 341 ounces of gold.

Paper and Pulp Shipments

For the first nine months of the current fiscal year Canadian exports of paper and pulp were valued at $74,424,312, an increase of $14,006,884, compared with the total for the corresponding period last year. Compared with the first nine months of the previous fiscal year, the gain was $26,978,533. The bulk of shipments have been newsprint paper.

$250. EVERY DAY—TO BOSTON AMERICAN READERS

Timothy Buckley

29 Cass St., Portsmouth, N. H.

will be paid $150 for the "best last line" of

LIMERICK No. 26

The completed Limerick reads as follows:

There was a young maiden in Lent
Who said, "Of my sins I'll repent.
I'll go daily to church,
Leave my beau in the lurch,
For my soul longs for peace and content."

4 next "best last lines" of

No. 26 Limerick were written by

EARL WESTLING, 69 Hollis St., Worcester, Mass.
FLORENCE SULLIVAN, 94 Farnham St., Roxbury, Mass.
REGINALD ROBOTHAM, 42 Cross St., Westerly, R. I.
MARY E. SCANLON, 138 Bowdoin St., Dorchester, Mass.

Each of whom will be paid $25.00 by the Boston American

RULES:

1. Friday, January 30th, the Boston American commenced publication of a daily incompleted Limerick, and $150 will be paid for the "best last line" sent by the readers completing Limericks Numbers 1 and 2. Beginning with Limerick No. 3, a total award of $250 will be given; first award, $150, and for the next four "best last lines," $25.00 each will be given. In the event of more than one person sending in the same "best last line," similar awards will be made.
2. No one is barred from participating except employees of the Boston American and their families, who are absolutely barred. No one may enter in more than one "best last line" to each Limerick.
3. The utmost privacy is given to the conveniences of the readers and the Editor, but you do not have to write this particular blank.
4. Each Limerick appearing in the Boston American will have a number, and the "best last line" must be sent in a sealed envelope, by mail, addressed to "Boston American Limerick Department," P. O. Box 235, Boston 3, Mass. On the outside of each envelope containing the "best last line" must be written or printed "Limerick No. ——." This is most important.
5. All "best last lines" must be received by the Limerick Department by 12 o'clock noon, Friday, date after publication. Announcement of each award will be made in the Boston American one week after publication of each Limerick.
6. The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these rules. Any question demanding the proposition, and the decision of the Boston American Limerick Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a proposal is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

Boston American Limerick Editor,
P. O. Box 235,
Boston 3, Mass.

TAX GUIDE FOR PHYSICIANS

Professional Men and Women May Figure Net Income by Two Methods

A doctor, dentist, architect, actor, author, or other professional man or woman, must figure up his or her fees, salaries, royalties and other items of income during 1919 and file an income tax return if the net income was sufficient. From the total receipts certain items of necessary expense are deductible, but not living or family expenses.

Form 1040 or 1040-A shows the correct method of computation. There are two ways to figure net income: (1) The cash basis, or actual receipts and disbursements; and (2) the accrual basis, or income earned less expenses incurred whether paid or not, applicable to the taxable year. Where books are kept, the latter method is the correct one.

Items of income from sources outside the profession must be considered in arriving at total net income for the year.

If unmarried or widowed, or if living apart from wife (or husband), return must be made in any case where net income is $1,000 or over. If married, return must be made if the joint net income of husband and wife, plus earnings of dependent minors, if any, equal or exceed $2,000.

Returns and payments must reach the Collector of Internal Revenue by March 15, 1920.

Boston & Maine Earnings

For the last quarter of last year the Boston & Maine Railroad has reported to the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities a net income of $258,666. For the corresponding 1918 period the road reported a deficit of $467,241.

Crude Oil Prices Ascending

Stock market strength at present of oil company shares is largely due to an increasing price for crude oil. It has advanced to an astonishing extent within five years. Production in this country was 45,000,000 barrels below consumption last year. Nut for imports from Mexico there would have been a shortage. The appended table shows for what various grades of crude oil are now selling and past prices:

	Current price	Jan. 1, 1920	Jan. 1, 1919	Jan. 1, 1918

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

War Is Over and the Senate Should Let Nation Get Down to Business

Mr. Wilson and his obedient followers in the Senate, who are growing fewer day by day, insist that the world is going to pieces because a treaty of peace is not ratified and proclaimed.

Then why does Mr. Wilson prevent the ratification of a treaty of peace by his own stubborn insistence on having his individual way about the terms?

Has Mr. Wilson not yet found out that the Senate is part of the Government of the United States—that it shares the treaty-making power?

Has he not yet learned that neither he nor any other man can rule this republic by his own fiats and decrees?

We would have had a treaty of peace negotiated, signed, ratified and proclaimed a full year ago if Mr. Wilson had not insisted upon interweaving with the terms of peace his scheme for a perpetual entangling alliance involving the United States in future quarrels between nations in all parts of the world.

The sensible procedure, as we then said, would have been to make and proclaim peace terms, and afterwards to have summoned the nations to a congress in which a sound and durable League of Peoples could have been worked out and adopted.

But Mr. Wilson's Americanism became so submerged in the adulation cunningly prepared for him by the clever diplomats who stacked the cards against him in the game of grab that he would listen to no advice, no counsel, no suggestion.

Even his own Secretary of State was kept outside the anteroom door—and anybody who presumed to differ with Mr. Wilson's notions was promptly cut off from communication.

Now, there has been altogether too much of this wiser-than-anybody-and-everybody attitude.

There are a number of men in the Congress with whom Mr. Wilson could advise with benefit to himself and the country.

No man knows it all—not Mr. Wilson or anybody else.

And the wisest man is he who is always eager to learn, who always recognizes that he is every day at school in the big University of Experience, and who takes his information gladly from all sorts of sources.

Nothing stands in the way of immediate peace and of immediate return to the problems of our own country except the hurt vanity, sore pride and inherent obstinacy of Woodrow Wilson himself.

That is the opinion of nearly every man you meet—and it is the right opinion.

Republicans and Democrats should unite in a declaration that the state of war has ceased to exist and let the country get down to business.

There will be plenty of time after American problems have been settled to discuss proposed alliances and leagues for the future government of the world.

A Reasonable Request From the Letter Carriers

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

The National Association of Letter Carriers, in a circular which they have just issued, make what seems to be the very reasonable complaint that the Postoffice Appropriation bill, which determines what their wages are to be for the coming year, was made up without any consideration of the facts learned by the Postal Wage Commission appointed in July, 1918, to determine the real facts of work and wages in the entire postal system.

The reason why this report was not considered, they point out, is that no report has ever been made, although the commission visited eleven of the principal cities, heard the testimony of more than a thousand postal employes, and individual members of the commission have stated that there was no question as to the validity of the employes' contentions.

One thing is as certain in the postal service as it is in any other line of endeavor—you cannot get good service unless you pay for good service, and no discontented, worried or dissatisfied worker can deliver 100 per cent. efficiency. Nor will a man stay longer than he has to in an occupation where he is either underpaid or overworked or both.

The postal employes are not at all unreasonable in their contention that the facts in their case should have had a hearing and have been a factor in the determination of the year's postal appropriation.

Since that was not done they make appeal that there shall be no reduction in postal rates until their claims for more pay have been given due consideration, pointing out what is the very logical conclusion that if the income of the department is reduced before their pay is raised they will have little or no chance for favorable action on their appeal for a living wage.

They ask that citizens who sympathize with them shall write to their Congressmen and Senators at Washington asking that postal wages be readjusted before any reduction in postage takes place.

This request seems reasonable, just, and for the benefit of the service, and whatever benefits the postal service directly affects everybody.

I'M IN bad.
WITH OUR nephew's mother.
WHO IS our niece.
AND IT isn't my fault.
BECAUSE HOW did I know.
THAT A little ranch kid.
WAS ANY different.
FROM CITY kids.
AND IT all came about.
BECAUSE THEY have an auto.
AND IT'S just four miles.
TO THE nearest town.
AND I took the auto.
AND TOOK the kid.
AND A lot of things.
THAT I had to get.
AND WE drove to town.
AND WENT to the grocery.
AND THE butcher shop.
AND GOT the mail.
AND THEN we stopped.
AT A candy store.
TO GET some candy.
AND TAKE it home.
AND IT seemed to me.
THAT WHILE we were there.
IN THE candy place.
WOULD BE a good time.
TO HAVE a party.
AND I asked the boy.
IF HE liked ice cream.
AND HE seemed quite pleased.
AND WHATEVER it is.
THAT LITTLE boys say.
WHEN THEY ought to say "yes."
AND ARE learning to talk.
I'M SURE he said it.

AND ANYWAY.
THE NICE young lady.
BROUGHT TWO ice creams.
AND I ate mine.
AND LITTLE Leeda.
WHICH IS his name.
ATE MOST of his.
AND AFTER that.
WE HAD root beer.
I LET him have.
JUST A couple of chocolates.
AND WE started home.
AND IT may have been.
THAT THE many bumps.
STIRRED HIS tummy up.
BUT WHATEVER it was.
WHEN WE got to the ranch.
IT WAS plain to me.
THAT A lot of the pep.
THAT HE had had.
WHEN WE started out.
HAD DISAPPEARED.
AND HE was pale.
AND I told his mother.
WHAT WE had done.
AND SHE'S given him something.
AND PUT him to bed.
AND HE'S had no lunch.

I THANK YOU.

Letters to the Editor

THE AMERICAN LEGION
DEPARTMENT OF MASSACHUSETTS
(Headquarters)
Room 179, State House

Editor Boston American:

I have followed with keen interest the series of articles from the pen of Charles O. Power, which recently appeared in the Boston American, setting forth what the American Legion desires to accomplish in the way of beneficial legislation for the world war veteran.

These articles explained so precisely the viewpoint of our organization in these vital matters and were presented in such a manner, carrying with them such an attractive appeal, that I cannot refrain from expressing my heartiest commendation and sincere appreciation on behalf of the Department of Massachusetts, the American Legion.

I am quite sure that your excellent co-operation will be of tremendous assistance to our organization in its efforts to secure the passage of the desired legislation. The Legion believes that certain benefits should accrue to the ex-service man—especially to the disabled veteran. It believes that the country owes the man who has seen service a lasting obligation and is exceedingly sanguine that Congress will take cognizance of the situation and accede to the wishes of the Legion.

EDWARD L. LOGAN,
Department Commander.

Thanks From Armenians

Editor Boston American:

I wish to congratulate the American, as well as all the Hearst papers, in my own behalf and that of the Worcester Post of the Armenian-American Legion, an organization of ex-servicemen of Armenian extraction, composed of 100 per cent. Americans, for your brave and excellent editorial on Constantinople and Armenia.

I do not think I am making an exaggeration if I state that your interest in this matter has given a new hope to the Armenians in this country, and some even consider the battle half won. This is because Hearst papers most always win their battles. Right always wins in the end, and I do not know anyone at any time who has been more in the right than the Hearst papers are now.

HEAD UP, CHEST OUT

Do your feet lag, your shoulders sag, and your tongue, does that seem to stick to the roof of your mouth if you are spoken to quickly and expected to answer in kind?

All that is necessary for your rival to know about your business to gain the feeling that you will eventually have to drop out of the game is to watch your present attitude toward life.

Don't you know that the way you carry yourself either gives people confidence in you or just the reverse?

You do not want to give aid and comfort to the enemy, do you?

Oh, you never said that you were out of the race, that you were discouraged and so no one has reason to assume as much?

Actions speak louder than words, and your actions are so slow and pulseless that a snail could out-jazz you.

Get busy. Make a few unnecessary moves just to limber up, as it were. It won't hurt you unless you have heart trouble—the physical kind.

It is not necessary to lie, nor to deceive anyone, just to look and act ALIVE—do you get it?

LIVING IN A CLOUD WITH A SILVER LINING

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"DEAR Mrs. Woodrow: I am writing to you in the hope that you will give me some advice. I am nineteen, and I feel thirty-eight.

"It seems to me that I must have been born unlucky, for as far back as I can remember I have had one struggle after another, and now I am almost ready to do something desperate.

"I ran away from home when I was fifteen years old. And, oh, dear Mrs. Woodrow, it was not a home, but hell. The woman I had to call my mother was a brute, and if I had stayed with her longer I would have been dead.

"I want, above all things, to be a nurse. I have patience and a good disposition. I don't get angry at anything, and I like to take care of sick people. But my education is very poor.

"I don't know what to do, as I am all upset and disgusted with everything.

"A CONSTANT READER."

The part of wisdom for you, dear girl, is to set yourself resolutely to forget your childhood and all that pertains to it. If you want to go forward in life, never clutter up your mind with such unnecessary, unprofitable luggage as resentment or old animosities. You are free of those old, bitter ties.

Look at yourself in the right light. You are young, healthy, free. You have had the courage to leave impossible conditions and the cleverness to make your own way. You are a wonderful girl, brave and resourceful—too wonderful by far to talk of being unlucky and blue and disgusted with life.

Servant Problem

Efforts to obtain "an equitable adjustment of household tasks, the relation between maid and mistress, the working out of a routine which shall be for the convenience of the largest number," are recommended in a statement by Mrs. Archibald Ewing Stevenson made public recently by the Smith College $4,000,000 Fund Committee. Mrs. Stevenson says that in these days of social upheaval and general unrest every woman should feel obligated to preserve intact the balance and harmony of the household. This duty of sustaining the social equilibrium should not be left alone to those women upon whom devolves the burden of settling the affairs of large groups of disaffected sisters.

No Donkey for Lenin Surprise for Mr. Anderson Which Hustles? Proof Not Needed

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Daniels says we must have the biggest navy if the peace league does not go through. In that case, the biggest navy we shall have, for the league is dead as regards America. England also, league or no league, means to have the biggest navy. And although she says little about it, she plans the biggest navy in air as well as on water.

With two countries, greatest and richest in the world, determined to have the biggest navy, somebody will land in debt.

For us the thing is complicated slightly by England's building ships with interest and principal borrowed from America, with payments "postponed."

Mr. Eyre, an American observer, is shocked to find Lenin, boss of Russia, dashing through the streets in a grand Rolls-Royce motor. Did he expect Lenin to ride on a donkey? Lenin has been active on the theory that it was his turn to sit in the Rolls-Royce, and the people of Russia do not object, probably knowing that the big car was taken from some grand duke or profiteer, not highly esteemed by the Soviet crowd.

The same American is pained to see poor Russian women dragging home slender supplies of food on little hand sleds.

It is painful, but the same women pulled sleds under the Czars, and the pulling was probably about as hard.

What in Russia really amazes travelers, used to comfort, is the fact that they can no longer push a button and get anything they want. In Russia now they live as the Russians live, Russians of average class. That is unpleasant and makes the revolution seem a failure, but perhaps it is not a failure.

England, apparently, has decided that it is not, and soon Russia—barring the surprises of assassination—will be among the accepted governments of the world. Plenty of Soviet gentlemen will have their Rolls-Royce, intelligence and cunning will rise to the top and rule as in America and France after their revolutions. And Soviet Russia will learn that a nation, topsy-turvy for a while after revolution, always winds up with its feet on the ground and the head in the air, the head ruling the feet in spite of all plans made by the feet.

The Czar went down because he was weak, consulting his cunning monk about as intelligently as some Americans consult the Ouija board. Lenin came up because he happened to be the strongest thing in Russia. The miracle is that he has lasted so long.

A fighting person of extraordinary power is Mr. Anderson of the Anti-Saloon League. An able politician also, and one who, whatever his enemies may say, has done a great thing in ridding the country of the partnership between government and whiskey.

But power and success make us reckless, as when the young bull waited, head down, for the locomotive to come.

Mr. Anderson's locomotive is the powerful Catholic Church, which, without presentation of proof, he accuses of conspiring with Tammany to beat prohibition. Mr. Anderson will find in the encyclopedia under the heading "Canossa" and in the history of Henry Second of England information of value to him.

The Anti-Saloon League is able at organization and combined effort, but compared with the ancient Catholic Church it is as a lisping infant compared with Mona. Talleyrand.

Mr. Anderson is destined within a year to know some things that were not included in his range ten days ago.

If you were asked the difference between old Rome and modern, hustling America, you would say, probably with a sweet patriotism, that in hustling, America is centuries ahead.

Rome and America have the housing problem that afflicted the whole world after years of no building.

America waits for private enterprise, slowly, to do a little building, followed by arch profiteering.

Senator Appolloni, Mayor of Rome, seizes vacant lots that owners fail to improve, pays a nominal price and orders apartment houses built at public expense. Where is the hustling?

Someone has discovered a letter, written by a Roman official at Jerusalem, describing Christ's personal appearance, fair hair, fair beard, serious face, etc.

And this is seized upon eagerly as proof that Jesus really lived, as though proof were necessary.

No volcano or earthquake ever split a mountain as Christ's words split and destroyed forever the old order of the world.

To refer eagerly upon a letter "describing Him," as proof of His existence, is like calling in a child to prove the existence of a volcano at Martinique. Christ's life is proved by every hour of history for nineteen hundred years. All measures without imagination look for "proof" that He lived.
